CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

Andrew Carnegie Will Sail for America in a Fortnight.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Today was Andrew Carnegie's birthday. Mrs. Carnegie said tonight:

"My husband has passed a quiet day in bed. He has received many kind messages of congratulations from intimate friends. He hopes to sail for America in a fortnight."

FAHNESTOCK DIED THIS MORNING.

James M. Fahnestock, sheriff-elect of Allegheny county, died at Mt. Clemens at 1 o'clock this morning.

There is still a great difference of opinion who will be sheriff after the first Monday in January. Several lawyers hold that the governor would appoint. On Monday Thomas S. Bigelow asked Attorney General Elkin about the point. Mr. Elkin said that, while there was an old law providing for an appointment by the governor, he thought the act was obsolete and that the present sheriff would hold over until his successor was chosen at the next general election. R. B. Petty, who is attorney for Sheriff McKinley, is of the same opinion.

MEN OF MIND AND AFFAIRS TALK OF PERTINENT THINGS IN PITTSBURGH'S INTERESTS

Unusually Strong Intellectual Relishes Furnished for Those Who Attend the Chamber of Commerce Dinner.

JOHN DALZELL RECALLS THE CITY'S BEGINNINGS

President Loree Edifies With Facts That Attract All Who Deal With Commerce--D. M. Parry Attacks the Proposed Eight-Hour Law.

The annual banquet of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, given at the Hotel Schenley last evening, was, all things considered, the most notable event of the kind ever held under the auspices of that organization. It was one of the most representative assemblages of the men who make great Pittsburgh what she really is, the most wonderful city in this country, the city has ever seen. The gathering had for its keynotes patriotism, civic pride, Pittsburgh's greatness and the still greater and more important position she will occupy in the near future when Greater Pittsburgh becomes a reality.

These keynotes had expression in the musical program, in the eloquent preliminary remarks of Congressman John Dalzell, who, as toastmaster, was at his best, and in the utterances of the distinguished men who were presented by the toastmaster.

A Notable Anniversary.

Col. A. J. Logan, president of the chamber, who presided over the banquet, was the first speaker. He told of the chamber's work and in doing this set the pace which the others followed as they discoursed of Pittsburgh and its greatness.

Th banquet marked a notable anniversary, as was set forth in a resolution adopted by the chamber on March 17 last, as follows:

Whereas, The history of Pittsburgh under English rule began on the 25th of November, 1758, when Fort Duquesne was captured by the army under Gen. John Forbes, aided by Gen. Henry Boquet and Col. George Washington;

Resolved, The anniversary of the above mentioned event (the 25th of November, 1902,) be hereby fixed as the date on which the next banquet given by the chamber of commerce shall be held.

This resolution was engraved on the cover page of the menu card, flanked by the seal of Pittsburgh. At the top of this page was an exquisite vignette of Gen. Thomas M. Howe, the chamber's first president, and the date of the body's organization, July 8, 1876.

Beauty of Decorations.

The handsome banquet hall of the Schenley never presented a more attractive appearance. Stretching along the east side of the apartment was the speakers' table. At right angles to it were eight other tables. The walls were hung with vines and flowers. In the corners of the room gigantic palms were thickly banked. On all the tables stood tall glass vases filled with white and yellow chrysanthemums, the effect produced being a perfect wilderness of greenery and blooms.

Preceding the banquet a reception was held in the library, a long line of Pittsburgh's prominent citizens passing before the guests of honor and the officers of the chamber. The felicitations exchanged were cordial and happy. Everyone felt it was good to be there; there was a spirit of good-fellowship and geniality pervading; the atmosphere was one of prosperity, greatness and general contentment. Congratulations were the order of the hour. And when, shortly after 8 o'clock, the doors of the banquet room were opened and the guests of the evening marched to their places to the ever soul-inspiring, patriotic strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," there was not a note wanting to complete the general harmony of the occasion.

Music Was Patriotic.

The music, rendered by a large orchestra on the stage, hidden by a great screen of palms, was one of the features. The opening march fully attuned the hearts and souls of the gathering to all that the event implied. And when Foster's "Old Kentucky Home," "My Country 'Tis of Thee," "Dixie," "Marching Through Georgia" and "There'll be a Hot Time" followed each other in quick succession, the men forgot business cares, and, leaning back, sang with the freedom and vigor of boys. When "America" was played the gathering rose to its feet and sang with much feeling, the hymn being followed by a rousing volley of cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs.

The menu was as follows:

Blue Points.
Haut Sauterne.
Green Turtle.
Amontillado Sherry.
Red Snapper, a l'Amiral.
Cucumbers.
Vol au Vent of Sweetbreads, Toulouse.
Filet Mignon, a la Richelieu.
Montebello Cremant Brut Vintage '93.
Potatoes en Surprise.
Punch a la Russe.
Roast Plover.
Chambertin.
Salad, Epicurean.
Pudding, a la Constance.
Assorted Cakes.
Fromage. Cafe Noir.
Liqueurs.
Fruit. Cigars.

Ovation to Dalzell.

The first speaker, as stated, was Col. Logan, who, in closing, presented Congressman Dalzell as the toastmaster. The ovation given the popular Dalzell was one that must ever remain with him as a pleasant memory. Cheer followed cheer. The assemblage stood up to cheer and it was several seconds before Mr. Dalzell could proceed. The speakers he presented were Col. L. F. Loree, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, who spoke on "Railroads and Their Relation to Municipalities;" the Hon. David M. Parry of Indianapolis, who spoke on "The National Association of Manufacturers," of which body he is the president; the Hon. Blackburn B. Dovener of Wheeling, congressman from the First West Virginia district, a member of the rivers and harbors committee, who spoke on "Inland Waterways;" Congressman-elect James W. Brown of the Thirty-second Pennsylvania district, and James Francis Burke, who made short addresses.

Colonel Logan Starts Things.

Albert J. Logan, president of the chamber, in opening the oratorical program, said:

"Since the last annual report of the chamber was published, including the work of the fiscal year ending in March last, the work of the chamber has been vigorously followed by your board of directors and officers. It is very pleasant to be able to say that since the annual meeting we have added to the membership nearly 100 names of our townsmen.

"Your board and committee have given attention to many subjects of public interest and importance. The report of the committee on sanitation, made at the June meeting of the chamber, on the sanitary condition of our city, was an able and instructive report, calling attention to the dangers existing and suggesting remedies to protect the health of the people.

"Your committee on rivers and harbors has kept careful watch over the work assigned to it, opposing any attempts at encroachment and urging vigorously all efforts that would tend to the improvement of navigation. A strong representation of this committee was present at the convention of the Ohio River Improvement association recently held at Parkersburg. The platform adopted by that convention was on identical lines with the resolutions on Ohio river improvement adopted by the chamber of commerce several months ago—namely, recommending a minimum depth of nine feet, improvement of the Ohio river proper first of all, its tributaries to be considered afterward, appropriations from congress to enable simultaneous and continuous work on all construction now under way, and where approved surveys have been made. With these recommendations put into force by the national government, navigation may be continuously carried on between Pittsburgh and the south.

Improvements on Railroads.

"We have before our committee on transportation and railroads the subject of much needed improvements and extensions of our railroad facilities. This subject should have the most careful consideration, as we have no question of greater interest to Pittsburgh industries than transportation, and recommendations should be on lines that will meet the present and future necessities.

"The chamber of commerce has declared many times that the various cities, boroughs and townships adjacent to Pittsburgh should be under one municipal corporate government. To aid in carrying out that declaration the special committee of the chamber on Greater Pittsburgh has prepared a bill that will be submitted to you for your consideration. It is hoped that at the next meeting of the legislature of Pennsylvania it will become a law, so that consolidation may be accomplished and Pittsburgh take her place in the rank where she belongs as to population, among the great cities of this country.

"The consolidation of the districts that should properly be under one municipal government would have a population of about 800,000, and would place us fourth in the list of the cities of the United States and third in manufacturing. Surely, if industrial establishments find consolidation beneficial for economical and profitable operation, we would as one great municipality reap abundant reward.

Pride in the Record.

"A careful examination of our records will show that any public question that properly should have come before this body has received just and deliberate consideration so far as it was within our power. It must be remembered that our function is only advisory on public questions. We have no executive or mandatory power in public affairs.

"While we feel that our record is something to be proud of, we must strive to increase our usefulness in the future. This can be done if the members will lend a more liberal share of their time to the work that we undertake for a public good. That such organizations as the chamber of commerce are a necessity in all greatly populated districts cannot be disputed.

"As in our city, so in many others, there is no organized body of the people that can come together to discuss public questions on a plane of public good without regard to political party or person. I therefore maintain that such bodies can render most valuable service to any community, giving expression of right on any subject, and aiding in establishing public opinion in the interest of the better conduct of public affairs.

"Attention to state and national legislation affecting our commercial development, so that our lawmakers may know the view taken by business men of proposed legislation. In our district are many matters of great public interest to be considered.

Vital Questions Pending.

"Among the great questions we have at this time are transportation, a purer and greater water supply, the raising of the bridges over the Allegheny river, increased traction railway facilities. The rapid growth of our population and steady increase of the volume of business being conducted in our city makes it necessary to consider some radical changes, such as widening some of the streets and alleys. This should not be confined exclusively to the downtown district, as broader highways to the resident section will shortly be a necessity. These and many other matters need the attention of the thoughtful and fair-minded business man, as only that which would bring the best and most lasting results should be recommended, so that our public interests may be kept in pace with our great and continued commercial success that we are so abundantly blessed with at present, yielding profitable returns to capital and labor in distributing the products of our many mills and factories to all parts of the world.

"It would be foolish for me to attempt any elaborate introduction to this audience of the toastmaster, who has for many years so ably served the people of Pittsburgh as the member of congress for the district that until recently covered the entire city of Pittsburgh. The chamber of commerce feels greatly honored in having Mr. Dalzell take charge of the meeting, knowing the splendid manner in which he will conduct it. I present to you Mr. Dalzell."

Dalzell Recalls Pittsburgh's Birth.

Congressman Dalzell, when he arose, received a magnificent greeting. During his address he was often vigorously applauded. After a few words of thanks and congratulation, Mr. Dalzell said:

I think it may be said without criticism that the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce,

QUAY WILL FIGHT FOR THE STATEHOOD BILL

It Is Said All Proposed New Commonwealths Would Vote for Roosevelt.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25.

The statehood fight will be the first to come up in the senate, especially if the senate committee reports adversely on New Mexico and Arizona. Senator Quay, who forced the senate last summer to agree to consider the admission of the three territories, will renew the fight and expects to win, as nearly a majority of the senators, as delegates in conventions, voted to admit the territories.

It is claimed by those who are urging the admission of the three territories that President Roosevelt is supporting their contention. These friends of statehood declare that with the admission of the three territories 10 certain votes in the electoral college will be gained for the Republicans if Roosevelt is the nominee.

New Mexico has shown that it is concerned only in the statehood question by re-electing Delegate Rodey by a vote of five to one. He is a Republican. The vote was given to prove that the one issue which concerned New Mexico is that of statehood. If a Republican congress should admit the territory, there would be no doubt of its party alignment, it is claimed.

McGuire, Republican, has been elected delegate by a small majority from Oklahoma, but the friends of President Roosevelt insist that he would carry the new state, provided the Republicans should admit it, by an overwhelming majority.

Arizona went Democratic at the last election, but it is claimed that Mr. Roosevelt can carry this state for president in 1904.

If, as is claimed by the Republican friends of statehood, the vote of the new states would be given to Mr. Roosevelt, it would add six new Republican senators and keep the senate certainly Republican, no matter what changes might be made in the east, for six years longer.

Senator Quay's support of the statehood proposition, it is said, is due not only to personal but to political reasons, and if it carries with it the influence of the administration, the committee on territories will have an uphill fight to maintain itself in its alleged decision to reject Arizona and New Mexico.

THE HARGIS-COCKRILL FEUD OPENED AGAIN

First Day of Renewed Hostilities Ends in One Dead, Another Wounded.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JACKSON, KY., Nov. 25.—The Hargis-Cockrill feud has broken out afresh, claiming one more life and one man being badly wounded.

On Sunday, at the mouth of Georges branch, William Stidman, a Cockrill sympathizer, was shot and instantly killed by Jack Thompson, a friend of the Hargis boys. Thompson was himself slightly wounded by a friend of Stidman, who made his escape.

Stidman was about 65 years old. He was speaking his mind of the way his friends in Jackson were being assassinated. Thompson, who is a young man, has not been arrested.

While discussing the killing at Jackson yesterday afternoon, Curtis Jett, a deputy sheriff and Hargis henchman, took exceptions to the remarks of L. C. Howard, a Cockrill sympathizer, and beat him over the head with his revolver. In the fight Jett's revolver was discharged and Howard was shot in the face. His condition is serious. Jett has been arrested.

THE PANAMA NEGOTIATION IS BLOCKED

MAY TURN NEXT TO NICARAGUA

But That Country Will Not Treat Unless United States Means Business.

FATE OF THE FRANCHISE

Secretary Hay today made to President Roosevelt at the cabinet meeting the discouraging report that Minister Concha had failed to agree to the latest proposition made by the United States as the basis for a Panama canal treaty.

This government is today no nearer the construction of the canal via Panama than it was the day the Spooner bill became a law, and, in fact, there are now apparent formidable obstacles which were not in sight then. The negotiations are at a critical stage. Already several notes have been exchanged between the state department and the Colombian legation.

The latest proposition made by the United States is said to be as liberal as Mr. Hay feels empowered to offer. Therefore, until Colombia modifies her attitude the negotiations will fail of their purpose.

It is said at the Colombian legation that, instead of rejecting the United States' proposal, Minister Concha offered a substitute for the proposition, and that to Senor Concha's proposal no answer has been received from Secretary Hay.

Concerning the rumor that Colombia would invalidate the extension of the concession to the Panama Canal Company, the Colombian minister, Senor Concha, said tonight:

"Any statement, from whatever source, that Colombia intends to forfeit the concession at present held by the Panama Canal Company, is absolutely unfounded. The claim was set up by the Colombian rebels that the extension of the canal concessions until 1910 was invalid, but the Colombian government has steadily refused to entertain such contentions. It stands loyally by its contracts, and a full respect for the concession now held by the Panama Canal Company is a matter of good faith and common honesty. Colombia will not in any manner tolerate any scheme to embarrass the just rights of the Panama company."

Secretary Hay, if it is found impossible to conclude a satisfactory treaty with Colombia, will so notify the president, who will then turn to Nicaragua and Costa Rica. Diplomats of those countries are not disposed to allow themselves to be used to coerce Colombia, and, therefore, are desirous of remaining in the background until it shall be clearly established that no treaty can be made between Colombia and the United States.

The original Panama canal concessions will expire in 1904. The Colombian government has that fact in mind and is disposed to refrain from making a treaty now, in the expectation that the franchise will lapse, and it thus may be in a position to build the canal itself or to sell a new concession.

Such a course would raise a very serious question between the Colombian government, the Panama Canal Company, the French government and the government of the United States as to whether or not a supplementary decree extending the concessions 10 years from 1904 is valid.

President Roosevelt laid before the cabinet his annual message to congress in completed form. It was sent to the printer today.

OHIO'S NEW CODE LAW IS UPHELD BY COURT

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—The first attack on the constitutionality of the recently enacted municipal code bill for Ohio met with defeat in the court of common pleas today. The case was brought at the request of a taxpayer, to test the law. Judge Murphy overruled the plaintiff's demurrer to the answer, thus sustaining the constitutionality of the law on all the points raised. Among these was that the law was not uniform in its operation and that it was not legally passed.

PITTSBURGH IN COUNCILS OF GOVERNOR

Von Bonnhorst Likely to Be Chosen Commissioner of Banking.

THIS IN CABINET OF PENNYPACKER

GOSSIP ABOUT CHANGES

This was a day of conferences and cabinet construction. Those who know what was decided upon say no public announcement will be made for some time. They report progress.

Pittsburgh is quite likely to have a chair in the Pennypacker cabinet, County Recorder George von Bonnhorst is being considered for the banking commissionership. He will accept the portfolio if it is tendered him. Mr. von Bonnhorst had a talk here with Senator Quay this morning. That the conversation turned on the political future of the Pittsburgher it is safe to assume.

Another honor—or, rather, a deserved promotion—is quite certain to go to a man living near the Smoky city. Col. Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh, now assistant quartermaster general of the National guard. I am reliably informed, is slated to go up a number and become quartermaster general, succeeding Col. Thomas Potter, Jr., of Philadelphia.

A Neighbor of Quay.

Col. Moody is a resident of Beaver county, a neighbor and lifelong friend of Senator Quay. He was favorably mentioned for the Republican nomination of governor before the tide settled in the direction of Judge Pennypacker. Quay and Penrose, it is said, both strongly favor Moody, not that they lack friendship for Col. Potter, but that the Pittsburgh man is considered the most competent.

As assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania he has had an experience which, his friends say, peculiarly fits him for the office of quartermaster general, that officer having charge of transportation of men, equipment and supplies.

Senator Quay left this afternoon for Washington. He was accompanied by his son, Maj. A. G. C. Quay. Last night the senator had a long talk with Gov.-elect Pennypacker. This morning they met again. Afterward Quay, Penrose and Durham were together for some time. Then George von Bonnhorst had a private seance with the sage of Beaver.

When seen by The Gazette correspondent Senator Quay said nothing had yet been settled about the cabinet or the speakership of the next house. He had no preferences that he desired to discuss publicly at this time.

Von Bonnhorst Would Not Refuse.

"I know nothing about the matter," said Mr. von Bonnhorst when I asked him if he was to become a member of Pennypacker's cabinet. "I have heard some indirect references to the subject, but so far as I know nothing of the kind has been agreed upon."

"Would you accept the position if it was tendered?"

"It is not probable that I would refuse; but it is better to let the matter rest for the present. I am, of course, very grateful to my friends for their unsolicited efforts in my behalf and have a very wholesome respect for the position they wish me to occupy."

"Did you discuss the commissionership with Senator Quay?"

"No, we talked about the speakership," said Von Bonnhorst, with an expressive smile.

That the Allegheny county recorder is certain to be called for by the incoming administration, may be generally accepted.

The attorney generalship appears to be the hardest guess. Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Watres was here today. He saw Insurance Commissioner Durham, possibly Col. Quay, and his name is again placed in the eligible column. Hampton L. Carson, the Philadelphia lawyer who presented Pennypacker's name to the Republican state convention, also is looked upon as a possible winner.

Walter Lyon Mentioned.

Evening papers associate the name of ex-Lieut.-Gov. Lyon of Pittsburgh with the place. Then Frank Fuller of Fayette must be reckoned with, either for the portfolio of law or that of state.

The friends of Secretary of the Commonwealth Griest are more than ever

MRS. KIPP FAINTED ON THE STREET, BUT CONSTABLE KNEW HER TRICKS

While Mrs. Mary Kipp of Allegheny was being escorted to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Constable O. F. Mills she dropped to the pavement at the corner of Fifth and Wylie avenues in an apparent faint. Constable Mills had handled her before and knew that it was but a trick; but as she weighs about 200 pounds he thought he had a large contract on his hands to get her to the jail. With the assistance of several men she was carried to the jail, where she promptly revived.

She said the faint was due to hunger, as the constable would not allow her to get anything to eat.

Mrs. Kipp is charged with disorderly conduct, assault and battery and surety of the peace by her mother, Mrs. Christina Eisenbaum. She will have a hearing before Alderman Watson of Allegheny tomorrow.

BIGELOW HAS MAN IN MIND FOR RECORDER

Declines to Give Any Clue to the Identity of the Candidate.

SAYS NOMINEE WILL BE A REPUBLICAN

Name Will Not Be Given Until Fusion Democratic Leaders Are Consulted.

HAYS NOT AN ASPIRANT

There are indications that Thomas S. Bigelow knows the name of the man that the Citizens party may nominate for recorder of Pittsburgh. Aside from the fact that he says he will be a Republican there is no clue to the identity of the candidate.

Mr. Bigelow and William B. Hays held a long conference yesterday afternoon. It was at the close of their talk that the former intimated that he had a man in mind who would make a good recorder of Pittsburgh. Every effort to secure the slightest clue leading to the identity of the prospective candidate was of no avail.

Mr. Bigelow was asked if he had decided to become a candidate for recorder. He denied that he had any intention of aspiring to the office. There was a great deal of talk yesterday about the candidacy of William B. Hays. Mr. Bigelow exploded this boom by saying that Mr. Hays had no intention of being a candidate.

When asked if the candidate named by the Citizens will be a Republican, Mr. Bigelow replied that he will. He said that the world was not made in a day and it was necessary in the selection of a candidate for recorder to move slowly. The conversation developed the fact that it would be necessary to consult with the Democrats favoring fusion, before there could be any announcement of the candidacy. When asked if a conference with the Democrats had been arranged, his reply was, "We are not slow."

There is to be a meeting of the Democratic city executive committee on Friday. It is not probable that this body will assume the responsibility of appointing a conference committee on fusion. It is said that George W. Guthrie, Democratic city chairman, is opposed to the executive committee taking this step, believing that it is a matter for the city committee. It is therefore probable that if there is an early conference, the Democrats participating will be self-appointed from the leaders of the Democracy who believe in fusion. The statement of Mr. Bigelow that the candidate is to be a Republican will mean that the efforts of the friends of E. J. Frauenheim to make him the fusion nominee will be unavailing.

MILLIONAIRE MUST PAY A BIG PENSION

Mrs. Julia Langer of Pittsburgh Wins Her Suit from Her Former Lover.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

Mrs. Julia Langer, formerly Miss Julia Reel of Pittsburgh, obtained a verdict tonight in her favor from a jury in the city court against Warren B. Smith, a millionaire. Her suit was for $800, being two installments of $200 monthly which she says he promised to pay for the remainder of her life after he had refused to marry her, and when she threatened to place her claim in the hands of her lawyers to recover damages in an action for breach of promise of marriage.

This means, if this verdict is upheld and the alleged agreement is considered legal, that Mr. Smith must pay the young woman $3,600 a year during her life. Should she live 50 years more, her pension will cost the millionaire $180,000.

Carlisle Norwood, counsel for Mr. Smith, moved to set aside the verdict and moved for a new trial on the ground that it was against the evidence, but Judge Seabury denied the motion. A. H. Kaffenburg, representing A. H. Hummel, who tried the case for Mrs. Langer, opposed the application for a new trial, and Judge Seabury granted a stay for a short time to give Mr. Smith an opportunity to appeal.

The young woman's face flushed and her eyes filled with tears repeatedly today as she listened to Mr. Smith's recital of the relations that existed between them and events that took place during the months that he found her an agreeable companion.

MORGAN'S WISHES DO NOT PREVAIL

HEARINGS WILL GO ON

Decision Wired to Conference of Their Counsel and Miners' Officials in Washington and Causes Astonishment.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

To the anthracite coal commission appointed by President Roosevelt will be left the settlement of the differences between the United Mine Workers, headed by John Mitchell, and the coal operators. No meeting will be held between the miners' representatives and the agents of the operators to attempt to reach an agreement.

This conclusion was reached at a meeting in this city today of the presidents of the coal railroads and 16 of the principal independent operators in the Wyoming valley.

During the conference a request was received from Washington asking that both the independent operators and the railroad representatives meet John Mitchell and his associates on Friday.

George F. Baer, who was in the chair as president of the Reading road, was instructed to send this telegram to Wayne McVeagh, counsel of the operators, in Washington.

"The conditions are such that no substantial progress toward an adjustment can be made by the suggested meeting. The general judgment of the operators is that it will be best for the present to go on with the hearing."

The Independents Objected.

The individual operators who came here Monday night held a conference this morning. At this meeting the general sentiment was one of surprise that the presidents of the coal railroads should seem to assent to a settlement of the trouble outside of the commission, which would mean that the operators' side of the difficulty, especially that of the independent operators, would not be heard. From the meeting they went to the meeting presided over by Mr. Baer. On behalf of the independent operators Mr. Simpson read a protest against a settlement of the questions before the commission.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Negotiations to settle out of court the differences between the anthracite coal operators and the mine workers, begun because J. P. Morgan demanded it, were suddenly called off late today when on the very point of consummation.

John Mitchell, Charles S. Darrow and Henry D. Lloyd, representing the miners, at the invitation of Wayne MacVeagh, representing the operators, came here early this morning to conclude the agreement begun at Scranton.

Everything was proceeding smoothly and to the apparent satisfaction of all parties to the conference. Indeed, it had been announced at noon by Mr. Darrow, legal adviser of the miners, that the main points of difference had been adjusted, namely, a 10 per cent increase in wages and a nine-hour working day. Only the details remained to be concluded, he said.

In the midst of the afternoon meeting Mr. MacVeagh received a telegram from New York and after reading it, to the surprise of all members of the conference, he said:

"Gentlemen, I have instructions from New York to terminate any further negotiations. The case will have to go on before the arbitration commission appointed by the president."

What the Telegram Said.

The telegram said that at a meeting of the anthracite coal road men in New York today it had been decided not to grant an interview to Mr. Mitchell and his associates, which had been suggested for next Friday.

The conference immediately ended and shortly thereafter Mr. Mitchell and his advisers departed for Scranton. Mr. MacVeagh refused all further information in relation to the telegram. Indeed, it appeared to be quite as much a surprise to him as to the other members of the conference.

The conclusion reached tonight by those familiar with the negotiations, is that Mr. Morgan, who was very eager to settle the differences outside of the jurisdiction of the president's commission, have been overruled by a majority of the coal operators.

Mr. Mitchell, when shown the dispatch from New York telling of the action of the operators, simply smiled and said he had not asked for the conference, but that when it was suggested to him if it would be agreeable to meet the operators, he said it would.

Mr. Darrow and Mr. Lloyd, however, were outspoken regarding the action of the operators. Mr. Darrow said it was now "up to the operators" and that he would return at once to Scranton, and on Tuesday would appear before the commission ready to go on with the hearing. Mr. Lloyd referred to the fact that Friday's conference had been suggested in order to adjust some matters on which there was still some disagreement.

"Yet," said Mr. Lloyd, "these same men, who only last week wired the commission their assent to the general provisions of the tentative agreement, and upon the strength of which the commission adjourned for a week in order to give the parties time to get together, now go completely back on their former action and call it all off. We are satisfied to go before the commission and continue the hearing."

PADDY M'GRAW MAKES NO PLEA

GETS FULL PENALTY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 25.—Cool, calculating and with a face hard as steel, Paddy McGraw today stood before the throne of justice and pleaded guilty to the charge of safe robbing in this city in September last, when his pal, Frank Kennedy, was shot and killed by Officers Gilligan and Driscoll, and he was captured after a desperate struggle. McGraw was brought into the criminal chamber this morning, and, contrary to public expectation he made no defense, but in answer to the court's question he said:

"I abide by what my counsel says." His attorney, S. O. Boyce, had already announced McGraw's confession of guilt. The prisoner was returned to jail and will receive his sentence later. It is generally believed that he will get the full penalty, 15 years, because of his past misdeeds.

McGraw and Kennedy had hung around Wheeling some time during the summer, having come from Pittsburgh, and had been mixed up, it is thought, in several robberies and housebreaking expeditions in this and Marshall counties, where they made some rich hauls without being captured. They plotted to rob the depot of the Panhandle company in this town, and had succeeded in blasting open the safe when they were apprehended by the police and Kennedy killed on the spot.

They both made a hard fight, firing several shots without effect. In the audience today was a stranger, a relative to McGraw, who stated that he wanted no notoriety. He was Philip Fitzgibbon, a brother-in-law of the prisoner, proprietor of the Auditorium hotel at 301 and 303 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh.

OFFICES COMING TO PITTSBURGH

Steel Combine About to Concentrate Them as Well as Plants.

SAVING ALL AROUND

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

The United States Steel Corporation will concentrate the offices of its various subsidiary companies in Pittsburgh, where they will be near the principal plants of the several companies. This has been decided on, and the plan is to be carried into effect some time after January 1.

The companies affected include the Carnegie Steel Company, Federal Steel Company, American Bridge Company, American Tin Plate Company, National Steel Company, American Sheet Steel Company, National Tube Company, American Steel and Wire Company and Shelby Tube Company, all of which have separate offices and which maintain bookkeeping and accounting departments.

It is expected to effect a considerable saving in operating expenses. The plan will be also to have the same set of officers, wherever possible, for all of the companies.

Pittsburgh is the point which is considered the most available for concentration and where the greatest saving in time and expense can be effected. One reason for bringing about the change is that office rents in New York are abnormally high. The executive offices will be the only ones maintained in New York after the change takes place.

The work of centralizing the plants of the corporation is progressing, and in addition to bringing together the great various plants operating on a certain class of goods, it is the intention to modernize other plants which are not entirely up to date.

While this work will begin at once, it is expected the principal expenditures will be after the New Jersey courts finally pass on the question of the validity of the conversion of stock into bonds and the issuing of $50,000,000 additional bonds to pay for these improvements.

Some very extensive plans will be carried out evn if the decision of the courts should be adverse. The company now has a large cash surplus on hand available for improvements.

BATTLE OF WORDS BY CONGRESSMEN

Congressman Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio and Champ Clark of Missouri, met last night in joint debate in Carnegie hall, Braddock. The subject was "Imperialism," but neither speaker confined his remarks strictly to the theme. Congressman Grosvenor's remarks were devoted principally to an indorsement of the policies of the Republican party. He attributed the prosperity of the country to the wise administration of Republican ideas, and declared that the Democratic party was a party of negation that had never done anything for the country.

When Congressman Grosvenor touched on Pennsylvania politics, in connection with the large Republican majority polled during the recent election, Mr. Clark declared that the large vote here was occasioned by the thousands of illegal votes cast in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Congressman Grosvenor's defense of Congressman John Dalzell, when Congressman Clark asserted that Dalzell could never be elected speaker of the house, because of his high tariff ideas, was received with applause. It showed in what esteem the Pennsylvanian is held in his own district.

Congressman Clark attacked the Republican policy in the Philippines, and said that if the money already spent there had been used for river improvements, a granite wall could have been built from the source of the Ohio to the mouth of the Mississippi, which would have raised the river 21 feet.

The debate lasted for over two hours and was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience.

Skating Season Opens.

The skating season opens this morning, when the doors of Duquesne Garden are thrown open to the public at 10 o'clock. Instead of having a first night this season, with its attendant crush, the management decided upon the plan of opening the Garden in the morning and so avoiding the crowd. Society will adopt skating as one of its favorite pastimes this winter, and in the morning the debutantes and the younger girls will be found in the Garden acquiring the grace and skill which make skating one of the most beautiful and invigorating of exercises.

CONTROLLER LARKIN REFUSES PAYMENT

Leaks in New Reservoir Cause City Official to Withhold Cash from Contractors.

Controller Larkin yesterday paid the Mercantile Trust Company for the amount of the April estimate for work on the new Highland reservoir No. 2, but refused to pay for the months of May, June, July, August and September. All the estimates were approved by Director McCandless and sent to the controller.

They aggregated $221,966 70, exclusive of $66,000 which is being held back until the reservoir is completed according to contract. The April estimate, for which the controller issued a warrant, amounted to $11,140.

The controller was called upon yesterday by Attorney J. A. Langfitt and the treasurer of the Mercantile Trust Company. The controller read the order of the supreme court, directing him to pay the sum of $11,140 for work done on the reservoir for the month of April, and stated that he would obey the court's order to the letter, but would not pay any other estimates.

Attorney Langfitt said: "Well, we will mandamus you for contempt if you don't pay them." Yesterday afternoon Attorneys Langfitt, Homer L. Castle and Stephen Stone, the son of Gov. Stone, were consulting on steps to have the city controller brought before the supreme court on a charge of contempt. It is certain that one of the pleas of the controller will be fraud in the construction of the reservoir.

Many councilmen said yesterday that proceedings should be taken against Director McCandless and his bondsmen for approving an alleged fraudulent job.

CITIZENS MEET IN EVERY PRECINCT

District Officers and Members of the Ward Committees Are Chosen.

Citizens party meetings were held in every precinct in the city last evening. District organization officers were elected and three representatives in the ward committee chosen. There was a good deal of rivalry in some of the wards, but the contests were all friendly.

Within a week all of the new ward committees will organize. One of the duties will be to elect a member to represent the ward on the city committee. It was said that R. H. Douglas would be opposed in the Twenty-first. This report is denied at Citizens headquarters. The program is to elect Charles A. Finley chairman of the ward committee and return Mr. Douglas to the central body. There are contests in the Seventeenth and Thirty-second wards. In the Sixth, where a fight was reported, there is harmony and W. B. Hays will be the committeeman. Thomas S. Bigelow will be chosen in the Nineteenth and Charles S. Crawford in the Twentieth.

The city committee will nominate the candidate for recorder. According to a South Side report a couple of the wards over there will instruct their representatives to vote for Andrew Fulton.

Petitions have been filed for the exclusive name Citizens party at the next election in all of the wards in McKeesport.

The Citizens committee of the Twelfth ward will meet at the O'Hara schoolhouse, Twenty-fifth and Smallman streets, tonight at 8 o'clock for the purpose of organization.

THE POLICE REVIEW.

Annual Event Will Be Held in Liberty Street on Thanksgiving Morning.

The annual parade and inspection of the Pittsburgh police force is to be re-established this year. On Thanksgiving Day morning the "blue coats" from the five police districts will assemble in Cherry alley, back of the Safety building, to appear before Recorder J. O. Brown. Director A. H. Leslie of the department of public safety; Supt. of Police John McAleese and his assistant, William Wilson; the members of city councils and the five police inspectors.

This custom was abandoned two years ago, but Supt. McAleese and Director Leslie decided to renew it again. There will be about 400 policemen in line under the direction of Capt. J. A. A. Brown. The men will march out Sixth avenue to Grant street, out Grant to Fifth, down Fifth to Liberty to Third avenue, where the inspection will be held. The patrol wagons from the ten station houses will be in charge of the sergeants from the respective stations. After the inspection the police will march out Water street to Wood, out Wood to Sixth avenue to the Safety building. The Eighteenth regiment band has been engaged for inspection.

NEW CHURCH ORGANIZED.

Friendship Avenue Presbyterian Congregation Elects Elder and Trustees.

The Friendship Avenue Presbyterian church was formally organized in the Friendship school at Graham street and Friendship avenue, East End, last night. On account of the inclemency of the weather only about 35 of the 55 signers of the petition for a church were present.

Only one elder, W. J. Phillips, was elected by the members last night, and it is contemplated that F. J. Kress will be elected to the eldership at the next meeting of the congregation. Nine trustees were elected as follows: Roland S. Wilson, W. C. Mohler, Samuel Baurersmith, Dr. G. M. Shillito, Dr. W. S. McCready, A. C. Ferguson, A. G. Tim, D. J. Kennedy and W. J. Phillips.

After the organization it was voted to ask the courts for a charter for the new church, which will probably be done this week. The congregation will ask presbytery to call a pastor shortly, and it is believed the Rev. Dr. Joseph T. Gibson, who has had charge of the mission, will be called as minister to the congregation.

The congregation has been holding Sunday school in the Friendship school, and arrangements will possibly be made in the next few weeks for holding services, and a temporary house of worship will be secured until the new church at Friendship avenue and Baum street is completed. The Sunday school has a membership of over 160.

The Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, presided at the exercises last night and the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached the organization sermon.

confident tonight of his reappointment. They say the increased Republican majority given by Lancaster county must be considered. I am told by a high authority that Lancaster has a large number of Dunkards and Mennonites, and that no one could have taken their votes from Judge Pennypacker. If the governor-elect takes this view, Griest's retention is still in doubt.

Another man who is said to be in the path of an appointive position of consequence, is W. L. Matthues, Republican leader of Delaware county. He is credited with having induced State Senator Sproul to withdraw in Judge Pennypacker's favor from the gubernatorial race. I am told he can have the nomination for state treasurer next year if he will accept it. If he does not desire to wait, the positions of secretary of agriculture, which pays a salary of $3,500, and of superintendent of public grounds and buildings, which pays $3,000, might attract him. There is quite certain to be a vacancy in the former position. The friends of Supt. T. Larry Eyre, however, are hopeful that he will be retained.

Attorney General Elkin arrived late this afternoon. He had a talk with Commissioner Durham. It is believed he informed Mr. Durham finally whether or not he is a candidate for reappointment.

YALE STUDENT FROM ALLEGHENY ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF RIOTING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

JOHN A. MOOREHEAD.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25.—Two more Yale students, John A. Moorehead of Allegheny and William A. Orthwein of St. Louis, were arrested today on charges growing out of the recent attack by a crowd of students upon speculators having tickets for the Yale-Harvard football game.

Moorehead is a prominent member of the varsity football squad and Orthwein belonged to the baseball team last spring. They were charged with a technical breach of the peace, and were released under bonds until next Saturday, when all five students who have been arrested for alleged complicity in the raid on ticket speculators will be given a hearing.

John A. Moorehead, the Allegheny student in Yale university who was arrested in New Haven on a charge of technical breach of the peace in connection with the students' raid on football ticket speculators, is a son of John Moorehead, Jr., of Moorehead Bros. & Co.'s Sharpsburg mills, who lives in Ridge avenue.

MANY GUARDSMEN ARE DISCHARGED

Labor Unions' Attack Threatens to Seriously Impair Militia Service.

NEW LAW IS SUGGESTED

Idea of Making It Misdemeanor for Employer to Discharge a Guardsman Because He Obeys Call to Duty Proposed.

An attempt will be made at the next session of the legislature to enact a law prohibiting an employer from discharging a workman because he was called away from his employment to perform military duty with a regiment of the national guard. Many employers of labor in Pittsburgh have discharged men who were sent to the anthracite coal country. Nearly 50 men in the local organizations of the guard are today hunting work because they performed their sworn duty to the state. In many cases men have been discharged through the machinations of labor organizations, whose members refused to work with them.

Shortly after the local regiments returned complaints came to the commanders of companies that labor unions and employers were antagonizing the re-employment of men who had served the state. Several men who had been members of Pittsburgh labor unions lost their employment, and others who applied for their old positions were told that they would have to leave the guard if they again expected to go to work.

Investigating Charges.

An investigation is to be made into charges that a certain labor organization in Pittsburgh has had emissaries out since the troops returned from the anthracite country trying to intimidate members of the organization and threatening them with loss of position if they did not leave the guard.

Gen. Willis J. Hulings, commander of the Sixteenth infantry, was asked yesterday if he thought the legislature had the power to enact such laws as would prevent an employer from discharging an employe because he performed his military duty. Gen. Hulings said:

Shortly after the Homestead strike an attempt was made to disrupt the National guard. Certain labor leaders went to Harrisburg, and had it not been for the efforts of Adjutant General Greenland, would have succeeded.

At a meeting of organized labor in Grand Army hall, Fourth avenue, after the strike, a Chicago organizer nearly broke up the meeting by offering the following resolution, aimed against a man at that time a private in the Fourteenth infantry, and now an officer in the same regiment: "Resolved, That we ostracise from membership any man who is now, ever has been or may become, a member of the National guard." Wise counsel prevailed and the resolution was tabled.

Hulings Opposes Law.

My own son lost his position because he went out into the service, but I think not because he was a guardsman, but simply because his employer was compelled to have the work done in his absence and hired another man. I have heard of a number of men in my regiment who have lost their places.

I have noted with a good deal of surprise the fact that some unions of certain handicraft have shown a disposition to shut out from their own membership men who are members of the guard. This opinion is one held by men who fail to understand the true function of the national guard.

I am a believer in the organization of labor and I perceive that organized labor is in a state of rapid evolution. I expect to see the day, and I hope it may come speedily, when organized labor will offer such palpable and obvious advantages and benefits to the laboring man that it will hardly be a question with the laborer whether he will join the union or not.

I don't think any good citizen will discharge a man because he was a member of the national guard, but at the same time, I can understand that circumstances may occur where the employer would be obliged to hire some one else to take the soldier's place while he was absent, and have no place to give the soldier when he returned.

I don't take much stock in the idea that the legislature shall make it a misdemeanor for an employer to discharge a man because he is in the national guard, since the effect of that would be to operate against all guardsmen, preventing many of them from getting employment at all or compelling them to leave the guard. As it is at present there are comparatively few men whose occupations are affected by national guard service.

SHAFFER'S FOES GAINING GROUND

President of Amalgamated Made New Opponents at New Orleans.

HIS SOCIALISTIC VOTE

An ugly internecine struggle is brewing in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers over the part that President Shaffer took in the convention of the American Federation of Labor at New Orleans. A controlling contingent will demand an investigation into the motives of their president in casting the vote of the 160 delegates of the association for the socialistic resolution, which came so near passing at New Orleans; also of his back-down under the investigation of his charges that President Gompers, President John Mitchell of the miners and Frank P. Sargent, then president of the Railway Firemen, acted in bad faith and were responsible in large part for the disastrous ending of the Amalgamated association strike last summer.

Shaffer was at headquarters yesterday. He refused to discuss the fiasco of his charges against Gompers.

One of the leaders of the Amalgamated association said yesterday: "We do not propose to sit idly by and have this man practically declare before the world that we are pledged to socialism. We are not, and he knows it, and socialism has never had any serious consideration in our conventions. He voted his delegation that way, simply to take a slap at Gompers. His action stands, all the same, as an avowal of our allegiance to the cause of socialism."

Several of the Pittsburgh delegates to the New Orleans convention came home yesterday. They left Shaffer in New Orleans, he excusing himself from accompanying them by saying that he would make a stop in Alabama. His stop was evidently a short one, for he reached here as soon as the others. Among the Pittsburgh delegates returned are The s H. Flynn, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor; J. A. Keeler, vice president of the Iron City council of the American Federation of Labor, who represented the Coopers' International union; W. J. Kelly of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, who represented the Iron City council, and Edward McKay of the miners, who was the personal representative of President John Mitchell of the miners.

One of the delegates said: "You can quote me as saying that the Shaffer-Gompers incident is dead and that only good feeling now exists," and then he laughed and added: "Of course, all our people know that Shaffer is down and out in this matter, and it will mean his finish in the Amalgamated association. He went to the Scranton convention and sat silent and apart during the proceedings, passing every opportunity to justify his declarations against Gompers. Now he jumps up and courts a full investigation, with dramatic flourishes, and backs down before the committee."

A CLEVER SCHOLAR.

Knew the Food to Study on.

When a young lady going away to school carries food away with her in place of a box of candy, there must be some reason.

A woman in Milton Mills, N. H., says: "Having a large family, I had much care and worry, and was never very strong and healthy, but managed to keep fairly well until the last few years. Each summer lately found me worn out and weak at its close, so that I had to spend a week or two in bed. My stomach always fails me when I am over-tired, the food refusing to assimilate, until finally my stomach becomes so weak that the mere standing on my feet causes me to retch so violently that I have often vomited blood.

"I had seen Grape-Nuts food advertised and fancied it was like other cereals, many of which I had tried and discarded. When my usual attack came on last August, I was in despair, for nothing would stay on my stomach except a little hot milk.

"I decided to try Grape-Nuts and sent for a package. I ate a little and lay back after eating without experiencing any of the sickly feelings that usually followed any movement in bed, and fell into a refreshing sleep. I continued using the food and day by day gained rapidly in strength until now I am entirely well and strong and my stomach does not bother me any more.

"Grape-Nuts is what I have often wished for—something that I can eat for breakfast and feel that I am satisfied. After eating a dish of Grape-Nuts with a little cream, I can work all the morning and forget I have a stomach.

"The children like it so well that it is hard to keep them in bounds as to the quantity that should be eaten. My eldest girl actually carried off a package when she returned to school at —— with as much elation as if it had been a box of the choicest bon-bons." Name given by Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CAUCUS PLEDGES WERE NOT KEPT

Citizens Party Councilmen Have a Grievance Against Colleagues.

COMPLAINING OF WOODS

They Say Senator-Elect Went Back on Promise and Defeated Two Important Amendments to Pennsylvania Ordinance.

Charges are made that certain Citizens councilmen, who attended the party caucus last Friday night, violated their pledges and opposed at the meeting of common council, Monday night amendments which had been unanimously agreed to at the caucus.

The amendments referred to were the ones presented by J. C. Wasson of the Twentieth ward. Mr. Wasson wished to amend the smoke clause in the Pennsylvania railroad ordinance so that no restrictions should be placed upon the kind of fuel that the company should use in its engines. His amendment gave them the right to adopt any measures they chose to obviate smoke.

W. S. Woods, state senator-elect and member of the common council from the Twenty-second ward, opposed the amendment to the smoke clause, although he is alleged to have agreed to it at the caucus on Friday night.

The result was that considerable feeling was displayed at the council meeting against Mr. Woods on the part of President Crawford, Stevenson, Wasson, Brown and other Citizens members who urged the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. Wasson also offered another amendment, which was defeated, although said to have been agreed to at the party caucus. This amendment related to the vacation of Lyric street. The failure of this amendment to pass aroused the resentment of the members from the Twenty-first ward. Dr. George W. McNeil was particularly indignant.

The third Wasson amendment, requiring the railroad company to pay all damages to private property resulting from the construction of the new line, passed with the aid of votes of organization members. Mr. Woods also opposed this amendment, which is said to have been the one most commended at the Citizens caucus on Friday night.

It is charged that other councilmen beside Mr. Woods changed their attitude between Friday night and Monday night. The members who charge that the caucus pledge was broken declare that it will be a hard matter to obtain a caucus on any other measure that may come before councils and that it may endanger the passage of the railroad ordinances when they come up in select council.

BRILLIANT CAREERS Blasted By Chronic CATARRH

A Prominent Young Virtuoso Cured of Chronic Catarrh by Pe-ru-na After Years of Suffering.

Walter V. Wann.

Walter V. Wann, Violin Soloist and Instructor (Clearview), Detroit, Mich., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the head and throat to an aggravated degree and had tried many remedies, but only grew worse.

"Peruna was altogether different, however, as it seemed to take hold of my case the first week. I think I used eight bottles in all, but that is comparatively little when you consider the many years I suffered from catarrh.

"Peruna entirely cleared my system of any trace of it and I am now in excellent health and have been for a year, and all due to Peruna. I am pleased to endorse it as very trustworthy."—W. V. Wann.

A GREAT many brilliant careers have been blasted by chronic catarrh. Musicians, poets, sculptors, painters, and artists of all sorts have been doomed to a life of seclusion because of the insidious encroachments of catarrh.

Catarrh of the head, producing mental derangement. Catarrh of the middle ear producing deafness. Catarrh of the eyes, interfering with the vision. Catarrh of the throat, cutting off speech and making life miserable with all sorts of throat affections. Catarrh of the lungs. Catarrh of the stomach. Catarrh of the abdominal and pelvic organs. Any one or all of these forms of catarrh have laid low many a man and woman who would otherwise have been destined to a useful if not glorious career.

Prof. Walter V. Wann of Detroit, a musician of more than local reputation, would have been counted as one of these victims had it not been for Peruna. He had taken many remedies for catarrh of the head and throat as is too often the case, he grew worse and worse in spite of the remedies. Some one persuaded him to try Peruna. He found as thousands of others had found, a prompt and permanent cure. His own statement is:

"Peruna entirely cleared my system of any trace of catarrh, and I am now in excellent health."

Who can compute the value of such a recovery? Who can estimate the worth of such a remedy?

Peruna has made just such cures thousands upon thousands of times. There is no nook or cranny in the whole United States, but that some one could be found who owes his life and success to Peruna, the greatest catarrh remedy of the age.

Hon. David Meekison, member of the Fifty-fifth congress from Ohio, writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Councils are making progress slowly but wisely with the railroad ordinances. The open discussion of such measures is something of a novelty in Pittsburgh, the custom for years having been to arrange matters in advance and rush the bills through without giving either members of councils or the public opportunity to study them. Naturally under that system corporations seeking franchises satisfied the few in power and paid no attention to the public interest. By the new plan the welfare of the city is made the first consideration. For everything granted there is adequate return, principally in increased facilities for traffic.

In the matter of the remaining Pennsylvania ordinance and the desires of the Baltimore & Ohio the same policy should be pursued—that of careful consideration and open discussion. With respect to those ordinances it is not a simple question of exchanging valuable grants for increased traffic facilities. They must make actual compensation. The least that has been suggested for the Pennsylvania request for rights on Duquesne way and streets in the Point district is surrender of the claim against the city for $400,000 in connection with the Union depot improvements, and the assumption by the railroad of all costs and damages incident to the improvement. For the Baltimore & Ohio the rental offered the city is ridiculously small. The property to be occupied is valuable and should be paid for on a business basis. If the railroad company is not willing to pay a fair rate it is welcome to acquire private property to meet its needs, as the Wabash has done, at whatever figures it may agree upon with the owners.

There is one defect in the two ordinances as they passed second reading Monday night. The reservation of the right to tax, though made to apply to all railroads, is contained in one ordinance only. The effect will be to compel that one road to accept the provision, while others may dispute the authority of the city to make it apply to them. If inserted in other ordinances then all companies must accept the terms in order to obtain their franchises. This may be done on third reading. Upon this principle rests the power of the city to obtain adequate compensation for public grants to new and old corporations, so it should be the invariable rule to grant no privilege, great or small, without requiring the interested corporation to agree to the right of the city to obtain compensation. In the case of the street railways, gas and electric companies, that is the only means by which the hold of the city may be renewed upon franchises granted in perpetuity without compensation. The principle is vital to the future business administration of municipal affairs.

The trustees of the Carnegie institution of Washington appear to have some difficulty in agreeing on details of the general plan originally submitted by Mr. Carnegie for the establishment of a permanent university. At their meeting yesterday they considered and discussed plans of details submitted by their executive committee, but no conclusion was reached. This is not unnatural, as the whole subject is a large one, embracing, in fact, many subjects. The trustees may agree speedily, but it would be no surprise if they did not. The average of ability of the board is high and many of its members are men of strong individuality. If their views conflict in such a contingency to realize the benefits of this particular Carnegie benefaction by degrees. If the trustees cannot agree on everything they will doubtless be able to agree on some things, and thus make a beginning. If a start is made the whole university will in good time develop therefrom.

Last evening's dinner of the chamber of commerce was an event of importance. Congressman Dalzell, acting as toastmaster, exhibited those qualities of tact and broad intelligence that so richly endow him for the office he aspires to—speaker of the national house of representatives. Incidental to the eating and drinking several important subjects were discussed in some length by men of affairs. We may have something to say of these at another time, when they have been more carefully considered. The dinner was a complete success in every way and demonstrated more thoroughly than any of its annual predecessors the character of the chamber of commerce as the representative of the business sense of Pittsburgh, and the body through which suggestions of the greatest import to the civic life of the community come.

There is significance in the protest of this same chamber on Monday against the extravagant proposition to raise the Allegheny river bridges to a height that would do far more harm than good. At the same meeting it indorsed the measure for the Greater Pittsburgh, reported from committee a week ago. This bill is designed to unite Pittsburgh and Allegheny in one city, and it was only natural that the men who favor that project should object to another the effect of which would be to render communication between them difficult. Navigation of the Allegheny river is possible without raising the bridges, and under no circumstances does it call for the extreme elevation suggested, or the general injury of property on either side. The chamber of commerce is sound on that question because it takes into account all of the interests affected.

GOVERNMENT AS A BY-PRODUCT.

Conferences are going on at Washington as to the work of the coming session and there is much gossip as to the changes of currency reform, tariff revision and trust control. Eventually the president's policy will become known and in the case of an executive so frank, courageous and sincere as President Roosevelt, it may be expected to be sufficiently direct and positive as to form a legislative program, but then it will be a guess whether congress will even consider the matters he submits, and whether if congress should want to consider them, it will be allowed to do so. As was shown last session in the case of Cuban reciprocity, a minority faction in the senate which has reason to fear that congress may act contrary to its wishes, may stop proceedings by refusing to allow a vote to be taken. Senator Elkins of West Virginia, who was a leader of this legislative holdup, recently explained that he took this course not because he was opposed to Cuban reciprocity, but because he feared that if legislation were permitted it might open the way to tariff changes. He seemed to think that this justified his conduct, but even if this were so, it is clear that it substituted government by Elkins for the government by the president and congress provided by the Constitution.

But even when government by Elkins waives its authority and congress is allowed to act, there is no direct provision for government in behalf of national interests. The chief concern of members is with their district interests and they do the best they can for these under the conditions they find established, in which advantage of position counts for much more than strength of numbers. The ruling body is not really congress, but the committee of conference, which may introduce matter into a bill which has not been considered in either house, or it may change items concerning which there is no disagreement between the two houses. Once when the senate and house had fixed the duty on iron ore at 50 cents a ton, the conference committee made the rate 75 cents. At another time when the house had fixed a duty of $20 on bar iron and the senate had made the rate $20 16, the conference committee fixed the rate at $22 40. A clause was inserted in the tariff bill of 1897 imposing an extra duty of 10 per cent on all goods brought into this country from Canada. Nothing had been heard of that enactment until after the bill had become a law and a number of the conferees themselves publicly stated that they did not know that the conference committee had adopted it. The report of a conference committee may not be amended, but must be adopted or rejected in its entirety. It is take that or nothing, so congress always submits. Thus in the end government is not the result of congressional action directed toward specific ends, but is a by-product of congressional activities, determined by hidden influences. Hence the dread which tariff revision always inspires, even though its necessity be admitted.

Of government as a direct product of constitutional machinery the Swiss republic offers the best example. The federal council, corresponding to our president's cabinet, prepares and submits all legislative measures, the members having for that purpose seats in congress so that they may participate freely in the debates on the laws they prepare. In practice debate is not protracted, as generally members have made up their minds when the session begins, for all the important measures which the federal council has to propose have been drawn up in advance and published in detail. If the necessity of changes is indicated, either by spontaneous manifestations of public opinion, or by the votes of the federal assembly, the federal council makes the changes, but the actual shaping of legislation remains altogether in the hands of the federal council. The federal assembly—as the Swiss congress is called—simply controls the process, every step of which takes place under public scrutiny.

This is the essential principle of the Swiss Constitution, which works so smoothly and successfully in maintaining popular government that there is a disposition in this country to imitate some of its features, particularly the initiative and the referendum. These, however, are of very subordinate importance and their working is unintelligible, unless the essential principle of the Swiss Constitution be comprehended. All that the initiative means is that although ordinarily a motion of the federal assembly sets the federal council at work to prepare a certain legislative measure, the same result may be accomplished upon the direct petition of a specified number of citizens. The referendum means that a measure instead of being disposed of by the federal assembly may be submitted directly to the people themselves. These features of the Swiss Constitution, like the others, are based upon the fact that the executive department prepares all legislation.

The debates and writings of the framers of our Constitution leave no doubt that they had in mind similar methods. President Roosevelt's proposal of a commission to revise the tariff is sometimes criticised as a novelty opposed to constitutional usage. As a matter of fact it was assumed by the fathers that this would be the regular way. No. 36 of the Federalist remarks: "Nations in general, even under governments of the more popular kind, usually commit the administration of their finances to single men, or to boards composed of a few individuals, who digest and prepare in the first instance the plans of taxation which are afterward passed into law." Government as a by-product is a perversion of constitutional intent and is the abounding source of political corruption. The remedy is a transfer of direct legislative initiative to the executive department where it belongs. If it were not for the fact that this legislative initiative is indirectly exercised by the president, through the influence of his office, our institutions would not work at all, and in proportion as that initiative is obstructed and perverted by congress our institutions work inefficiently and corruptly.

MR. DALZELL'S STRENGTH.

While the Cannon boom is making considerable noise at the present time, the friends of the Hon. John Dalzell are encouraged by knowledge that the longer he is under inspection as a candidate for speaker the more apparent his fitness becomes. The Pittsburgh congressman wears well. He is built for use, as has been proven. He does not wear out, nor do his mental gifts become stale. He has been found to be the right man in the right place whenever tried, and he has served in congress in times of stress, when men were tried at every point. Expectation of his final success in the campaign for speakership is based on knowledge of his equipment and of the requirements of the office that will be better appreciated the longer the contest continues. The first rush of controversy has caused members of congress to take sides on the lines of tariff revision, and Mr. Cannon's strength is largely based on the presumption that his views are particularly acceptable to the west. It must appear in the course of time, however, that no Republican east or west is opposed to a necessary revision of the tariff schedules, and when this is forced home there will be a growing preference for conservative, rather than for radical, action that ought to materially benefit the Pittsburgh congressman. Revision of the tariff is not an end in itself; it is the means to an end, and will require the ripest judgment, experience and scholarship to deal with it, so the nation will be benefited instead of injured. These qualifications Mr. Dalzell possesses in a high degree. When the necessities of the situation become more apparent with the nearness of the time for dealing with conditions instead of theories, his strong points will appear in bolder relief and win him many votes that are now not counted for him. He is certain to grow in favor for the speakership, and his personal qualities ought to win it for him.

IS COMMISSION'S WORK ENDED?

General interest in the settlement "out of court" of matters that have been in controversy between the anthracite coal operators and miners has for the moment caused it to be forgotten that the true reason for the constitution of the arbitration commission was not the interest of employer and employe in the dispute, but the invasion of the rights of the public involved in a continuance of the deadlock produced by the irreconcilable attitude that had been assumed. Now that a settlement has been all but reached between the mining companies and the miners, the real purpose of the president's intervention is naturally recalled and the question comes up, will the work of the commission be ended by an agreement of operators and workers? The first purpose of intervention was accomplished when the disputants agreed to immediate resumption of mining as a precedent to arbitration. The rest was a matter of detail to the end that conditions relatively permanent might be established that would insure to the public continuance of the supply of coal. Operators and miners were, in fact, pledged to accept the award of the commission and abide by it, but they have virtually forestalled the judgment of the arbitrators by a mutual agreement that has been almost reached as to what their relations will be for the future. Doubtless it was desired that facts be developed by inquiry that would enable the commission to make recommendations of general application, but the present aspect of things makes it appear that there will be no duty left for it when it next assembles but to make a record of the terms of settlement, report to President Roosevelt and adjourn. The commission, though appointed by the president of the United States, is really an unofficial body, without powers, except such as were given it by common consent, after pressure, and, if there is no dispute left to settle, it is without further functions. But it has served a useful purpose as an expression of the president's determination that the rights of the people shall be respected; and in acceptance of its mediation by the contending parties the doctrine that the interests of the people are paramount gained a distinct victory. Therefore, in the agreement that has been almost reached in advance of a full development by the commission of the right relations of property owner and employe to production and to a division of the rewards of productive effect its full purpose is accomplished. The agreement will establish conditions that insures to the people a full supply of coal, and this is the object that was sought by the president, and for which the commission was appointed. The voluntariness of the conclusion now in sight, though strenuous means had to be used to prepare the ground for it, is a better guarantee for the future than even acceptance of the set terms of an award, and the whole matter, from the first appearance of the president in it until an agreement was reached, furnishes an example and establishes principles that ought to work good throughout all the relations of labor and capital with each other and with the public they serve. The question, "Is the work of the commission at an end?" is best answered by results. Congress may in its wisdom provide for further inquiry by this commission or by another, or by one of its own committees to the end that some recognized lawful means may be provided for intervention by the public for its own protection in future controversies. This, however, is another branch of the subject, and unless its life shall be continued by some mutual agreement, the board appointed by President Roosevelt will be without business when it is authoritatively informed that the dispute it was appointed to deal with has become a mere matter of history.

Though the object of the agitation for a law to prevent employers discharging men on account of service in the National guard is a worthy one, it will be extremely difficult to devise a measure to accomplish it. The effect of a simple prohibition would be to cause employers to assign other reasons for the discharge of workmen; only that and nothing more. The employer who would discharge a man for no better reason than that he is a member of the National guard and does his duty as such, is deserving of severe punishment, but it is doubtful if a law can be drawn that will reach him as effectively as public opinion.

Director Leslie of the department of public safety outlines in an interview what is to be expected if construction of the new municipal hospital is needlessly delayed. First, is occupation of the bacteriological stable; second, the new engine house in Center avenue; third, any quarters that can be secured for the purpose. It is needless to say that diffusion of infectious cases multiplies the danger. The director understands this and his proposed diffusion to three or four localities is for the purpose of avoiding the wider diffusion of domicile quarantine. The new hospital has been too long delayed already and there is serious danger in further parley.

The gradual approach of the Times to agreement with The Gazette on questions of public policy is very gratifying. Yesterday it republished an editorial article of The Gazette, which we are glad to know it approves, for we believe that the views expressed are sound and worthy of general acceptance.

METROPOLIS IN A THANKFUL MOOD

Proclamations of Both President and Governor to Be Read in Schools.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly an American institution. It is observed with ceremonies specially provided for the day and, in the national mind, is of as much importance as Christmas itself. Mr. Maxwell, city superintendent of schools in this city, taking cognizance of this fact, seeks to inculcate in the understanding of his thousands of young charges that the day should be observed patriotically, as well as in a spirit of reverence for Providence, the giver of all mercies. In every school in Greater New York tomorrow morning the Thanksgiving proclamations both of President Roosevelt and Gov. Odell will be read. Besides this, there will be simple religious exercises. It has always been the custom to read the governor's proclamation in New York public schools on the day before Thanksgiving, but Mr. Maxwell thinks so well of President Roosevelt's document that he wants that read, too. Besides, the president is a New Yorker and has been governor of this state, and that may have had something to do with the order of the city superintendent. The intention to make this a great Thanksgiving in this city may be seen on all sides. The markets are bursting with good things, although, on account of their high price, it is believed there will be fewer turkeys sold here this year than usual. The churches, who have their usual extra music for the day and the sermons will be prepared to reflect the sentiment of the day. New York is always ready to take a holiday on any excuse, and Thanksgiving sees as general a cessation of business as any holiday in the year. There will be absolutely nothing doing downtown, while in other parts of the city the rest from secular employment will be as widespread and well marked. The only thing that may be lacking to make the day a popular success is a snowstorm. If there should be a heavy fall of snow then it will be a real, old-fashioned Thanksgiving, indeed.

Languid Interest in Evacuation Day.

This was "Evacuation day." The usual ceremonies of raising "Old Glory" at the battery and at the historic Jumel mansion on Washington Heights, were carried out. The Jumel place was once the headquarters of Gen. Washington, as the school books will tell you. It seems as if interest in the anniversary of the day when the British were compelled to get out of New York is dying out. Comparatively few New Yorkers knew this was "Evacuation day" until they saw it announced in the papers.

Evening Meal a Time for Thieves.

This is the time of year when "supper thieves" are busy. In New York the evening repast is called "dinner," but that makes no difference to the Jerry sneaks that get into residences and rob bedrooms while the family is at its meal. The police are busy over a rather exclusive robbery of this kind in Brooklyn last evening. Thieves stole $5,000 worth of jewelry, the property of a lawyer and his family, within a few feet of the dining room, and without having to break a lock, either. The police said they were "false key men," but that is as far as official acumen goes.

Philadelphia Woman's Troubles.

Mrs. Constance Drexel Biddle bobs up in the news again. This lady with the distinguished Philadelphia names seems to be having a heap of trouble over her diamonds, with a theatrical manager as her evil genius, Najil Hashim, the manager, had had luck in New York with Koster & Bial's music hall and then fell into evil days in Philadelphia theatricals. Today he was held in $1,000 bail in a police court here, charged with depriving Mrs. C. D. B. of a $250 diamond locket.

Dr. Parkhurst's Preaching and Practice.

Dr. Parkhurst intimates that the reason there is such a marked falling off in church attendance nowadays is that so many ministers go into the side show business in the effort to popularize their churches. The doctor does not approve of sensational methods, he says. He does not like concerts, boxing matches and other catchpenny devices in connection with church work, and he is not afraid to say so. Unfortunately for himself, the recollections of his own leapfrog performances of several years ago will not die out of the public mind, much as he may wish it.

Woman Critic's Remark About Wilson.

James E. Wilson is generally considered to have made a hit in the new production of "Audrey," in the Madison Square theater. One critic in town does not seem to like him, however, referring to the actor's work curtly, thus: "In the hands of James E. Wilson, the hero is a dreadful person." It is a woman critic that says this, so, perhaps, it does not count. She may not like the shape of his nose.

Politics Doing Wonders.

Hoboken has just given us a reminder of the grand duchess of Gerolstein in the way it has appointed a new chief of police. The police commissioners at one meeting raised a patrolman, first to be a sergeant, a captain, and at last chief. Offenbach's "Fritz" was not raised in rank faster than this. The new Hoboken chief is said to owe his rapid promotion to political influence, and it does look like it.

A Mere Trifle for a Waldorf Waiter.

A Waldorf-Astoria waiter has won a $1,000 automobile on an investment of a dollar. He took a chance in the drawing at the harvest festival for the benefit of the Free School for Crippled Children and got the prize. Of course it is very nice for a waiter to win an automobile; but, after all, what is a $1,000 prize to a man whose pockets are bulging with palm-room "tips" every evening?

Largest Power House in the World.

It was announced today, officially, that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which controls the Long Island railroad, intends to erect in Long Island City the largest power house in the world. It will operate trains in the new East river tunnel and all Long Island trains as far as Jamaica. Drilling for the foundations of the edifice began today.

Woes of Apple Mary.

Another of the multitudinous "Apple Marys" in this city has got her name into the papers. This particular celebrity sells apples at South Ferry and is charged with peddling without a license. She was wise, so long as she could dodge arrest. No doubt she has noticed that a license held by a victim does not deter the police from kicking Italian fruit push cart men all over Park row and Broadway. Mary's sex saves her from that kind of thing. All that could be done to her was to arrest her, which is easy when one has the few dollars necessary for the fine.

Ocean's Fury Does Not Deter Travelers

Notwithstanding that the Deutschland, just arrived at Plymouth with her upper works damaged, reports that she had terrific weather on her way over from New York, there is no break in the regular departures of steamships from this port. The passengers may be a little nervous, but the officers and crew merely smile disdainfully at the notion of danger. It takes more than the ordinary hurricane to wreck a modern ocean greyhound.

Turkeys Roost High This Year.

Turkeys are high this year. The wholesale rates are 18 and 20 cents a pound, which means 25 cents a pound at retail. Last year the wholesale prices were 11 and 12 cents a pound, which enabled them to be sold at retail at 15 and 18 cents. The rainy summer and fall and also high price of grain are the reasons given for the big figure. All poultry is higher than it was at last Thanksgiving time.

Molineux's Lawyer Needs Rest.

Ex-Gov. Black says his exertions at the Molineux trial wore him out and he needs rest before taking up any other important case. He is counsel in a contest over the will of the late postmaster of White Plains, John F. Moran, and the case was to have come up today. Mr. Black wrote from New Hampshire telling of his fatigue, however, and today the case was postponed to December 15. Mr. Black made his point in the Molineux trial, and he feels that he is quite entitled to a little rest. Osborne, the demon assistant district attorney, worked pretty hard, too. But as Molineux was not booked for the chair, why, of course, Osborne must get over his weariness the best way he can, without stopping work.

Steel Girders Block Traffic.

A big wagon carrying five tons of steel girders and drawn by four horses went through the planking over the subway at Longacre square this afternoon, and it looked for a time as if the whole affair would drop to the bottom of the subway. All the cars on Broadway for a mile or two were stopped and excitement along the Rialto was tremendous. The girders had to be unloaded from the truck and then the wheels were lifted out. By that time several hundred passengers on the cars were nearly insane with rage and haste, and the police on duty had got through their patience long ago. In half an hour, however, it was all over and Broadway had forgotten all about it 10 minutes later.

A Bright Idea, but Impracticable.

A Mrs. Miller, who spoke at a meeting of women's clubs in this city this afternoon, has an idea of for better street car service for her sex which was received with much enthusiasm by her sister reformers. She suggests that the railway company should reserve every third car specially for women. Men must not ride in those cars, except in the case of a young man taking his sweetheart to or from a theater, or a man accompanying his wife. The proposition may be a good one, but the experience in this city with ferryboats, where the women's cabin is often crowded with men to the exclusion of women in the rush hours, suggests that the "third car" would be patronized by men even more generally than by women. Mrs. Miller must try again.

The Football's Casualty Roll.

According to a statistical man in town, the list of football fatalities this year so far is 11, with a long list of injuries. It is the more interesting to New York because while a great many games have been played in this city or within a few miles of it, we have not killed anyone on the gridiron so far.

Small Comfort for Chauffeur.

According to a remark by Judge Fleming in the court of special sessions at Jamaica, Long Island, today, the chauffeur who exceeds the speed limit in that bailiwick may escape punishment for the present. The judge said that the court of appeals having decided that it was unconstitutional to pay out money to private corporations, he could not fine anyone for violations of the automobile limit until he knew what he was to do with the money thus collected. Hitherto it has gone to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Chauffeurs are not deceived by this state of things, however. They believe that if they are caught racing their autos they will be punished somehow, and there is a lively recollection of several offenders being sentenced to prison without the option of a fine.

Prosecuted a Dead Man.

The authorities in New Jersey, while strict disciplinarians, are not entirely unreasonable, as was proved in Jersey City today. The New Jersey state board of health had a case against a man for selling impure vinegar, and it looked at first as if he would surely be punished for his wickedness; but at a critical moment it came out that the defendant had been dead for 20 years, and the board gravely withdrew its complaint. The explanation was that the widow has been conducting the business in her husband's name.

More Criticising Than Buying.

Although it rained this afternoon, so that the big Madison Square garden smelt damp and musty, there was a large attendance at the "Old Glory" sale. Most of those present were well-known horsemen, who seemed inclined to look critically at the animals put up rather than to bid for them. Considering the crowd, the sales were decidedly slow, although it was noticed that prices held up pretty well. Taking advantage of the interest in horses engendered by the horse show, other auctioneers were selling horses today, and you could pick up something from $25 up if you really wanted a horse at all. Elder Smoot's Busy Winter.

From the Butte Inter-Mountain.

There is every indication that it will be a busy winter for Elder Smoot. First, he will have his election as United States senator to look after. That seems tolerably easy, but after that the anti-Mormons will get after him to prevent his being seated at Washington. There is one thing he will have in his favor, and that will be the absence of Helen Gould in the fight that will be made against him. It is fair Helen financed the fight against the Hon. Brigham H. Roberts, but the Mormons struck back at her through the railroad interests of herself and her brothers. She had to come off. The Goulds will not be in the fight against Smoot, but there will be others. Smoot is in for a busy winter.

Speaks With Authority.

From the Louisville Post.

Mr. Bryan says the need of the Democratic party is votes, instead of leaders. It must be admitted that Mr. Bryan's experience as a leader entitles him to speak with authority on this subject.

Our Leaky Reservoir.

From the Philadelphia Press.

The people who are responsible for Pittsburgh's leaky reservoir are now accused of trying to punch some holes in the city treasury. Something dreadful is going on in Pittsburgh, but about all the time.

PERSONALS.

"Connellsville is the most progressive city between Pittsburgh and Cumberland," said Henry Curtz, a drygoods merchant of that flourishing place, at the Hotel Grilswold. "Within two years the city has been rapidly built up. Within a short time the new opera house will be completed. In New Haven, on the west side of the river, a new national bank is being erected. I understand that the Sligo mills, in Pittsburgh, will be removed to New Haven."

The 11th annual banquet of the Western Pennsylvania Medical society was held at the Hotel Henry last night. Plates for 75 guests were laid. The principal address was made by Dr. J. B. Deaver of Philadelphia, and a number of informal toasts were drank. The banquet committee was Drs. E. S. Montgomery, E. E. Mayer and James Witherspoon.

Mrs. Rose Reizenstein, aged 77 years, died yesterday at her residence, No. 1524 Fremont street, Allegheny, after a brief illness. Mrs. Reizenstein was the widow of Charles Reizenstein, who was for many years one of the best-known merchants of Allegheny. He founded the firm of Charles Reizenstein Co., chinaware and glass dealers. Mrs. Reizenstein was born in Bavaria, Germany, and came to this country 53 years ago. For several years she lived with her husband in New York, and 36 years ago moved to Allegheny. She had been a member of the Eighth street synagogue since the first year of her residence in Allegheny, and was always prominent in charitable work. She is survived by four sons and four daughters: J. R., of Wheeling, Louis, Isador and Samuel of Allegheny, and Mrs. Carrie Veal of Allegheny; Mrs. Nathan Rothschilds of Omaha, Neb., Mrs. Powdermaker of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. M. He had been ill for the past six months of stomach trouble until two weeks ago, when complications set in, which caused his death. He was born July 31, 1845, at Plum Hollow, Leeds county, Ontario, Can., and went into the oil business in the Bradford field many years ago. He operated for some years in the Washington county field and then went to Ohio and West Virginia. The remains will be taken to Washington, Pa., for interment.

REFUSES TO RENOUNCE UNORTHODOX VIEWS.

Dean of Ripan Ignores Appeal of His Bishop to Stand by the Scriptures.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—As a climax to the widespread agitation, caused by the sensational address made by the dean of Ripan, the Rev. W. H. Fremantle, to the Churchmen's union, on October 29, in which he suggested that the idea of the immaculate conception should be left out of account because, except in Matthew and St. Luke the virginal birth of Christ is not mentioned in the New Testament, and also questioned the miracles, such as raising the dead by Christ and his resurrection, the bishop of Ripan, the Rt. Rev. Boyd Carpenter, has written a letter imploring the dean, "On behalf of many devout and simple-hearted Christians," to reiterate his belief in the creed of the church.

"Such a statement," says the bishop, "your friends and many hearts are looking for with anxiety."

The dean of Ripan, in replying to the bishop's appeal, ignores the controversial points, but emphasizes his belief in the absolute deity of Christ and his sincerity in reciting the creed.

STORIES OF THE DAY

A MINING engineer of this city, who spent several years in the western states, tells the following story that illustrates just how deeply a Chinaman is hurt by being called John.

"During the fall of '98 I was making some assays in the Colorado mountains and received a letter from a man in my employ, located near Ransburg. Some one had struck a pocket that, when assayed, promised something like $40,000 to the ton. My man had staked out a claim and in several assays had found 'color.' I started for Ransburg at once. I found the claim my man had staked off was some 30 miles south. The journey at almost any other time of the year, except in winter, would not have been difficult, as a good horse could be secured easily enough; but snow had fallen and a keen wind made traveling, especially on horseback, rather uncomfortable. But I made a start. Before I had gone half the distance I lost the trail and as night was falling I became a little uneasy. A night in the Colorado mountains, with a bitter wind blowing and snow falling steadily, is a matter for grave consideration, especially when a man has no provisions with him and is the victim of a healthy appetite. I followed what I thought was a trail that fortunately led to a shanty in which I saw a light burning. I rapped and was greeted by a smiling Chinaman. From the appearance of the room I saw the Chinaman had at some time operated a restaurant. He had all the necessary utensils. It took some time to get thawed, and then I said:

"'Well, Charlie, can I get something to eat?'

"'Yes, yes; me got you something.' And in remarkably quick time a small table had been placed, and I ate a meal that was as good as any within my memory. Just as I finished and was lighting a cigarette, a stranger threw open the door and walked in. He was unusually well dressed to be in that part of the country.

"'Hello, John. I should like to have a good square meal,' said the man, walking up to the fire. 'Charlie,' sitting behind what had once been his lunch counter, made no move, and the stranger repeated his desire for something to eat.

"'Me got nothing,' said Charlie shortly.

"'Come, you've got a house full of grub, and I'll give you $2 for a meal,' said the man, displaying a roll of bills as a means of encouraging the reluctant Chinaman.

"'Me got nothing,' repeated Charlie.

"'Can't you sell me even a loaf of bread?'

"'Me got no bread.'

"All further argument was to no purpose. Charlie had been called John by a stranger who was obviously a tenderfoot.

"The Chinaman had built that restaurant a year before when a small town had started up during an excitement following a discovery of gold. The town had gone somewhere else after a few months, but Charlie was holding on. During that few months Charlie had made a small fortune out of that restaurant. He had become known to everyone for miles around and was really a person of importance. Now a smart stranger had come into his own abode and insulted him.

"While I was wondering at this strange new light in Oriental character, a third stranger arrived. He was blue with the cold and said he had come from Ransburg on foot. He was on his way to some point a few miles further south where he had been promised work. This he told to Charlie and asked that the latter would give him a loaf of bread and trust him to pay the first time he came back that way. Charlie, who had denied that he had anything to eat in the house, drew up another small table before that fire and laid on it another such meal as I had been served. The miner ate it ravenously and Charlie watched him. That night Charlie had within its sphere of usefulness, measures up to its full height of the requirements of its position. (Applause.) I think it was a happy thought that the number of carnations chosen for the date of its annual banquet the anniversary of the founding of Pittsburgh. History tells us that 144 years ago yesterday, Gen. Forbes, with his little army moving against Fort Duquesne, camped at Turtle Creek. During the night an explosion was heard and on the morrow it was found that Fort Duquesne had been blown up and destroyed by the French. And 144 years ago today, in the dusk of evening, in the midst of a blinding snowstorm, the lilies of France drooping over the smoldering ruins of Fort Duquesne, gave place to the cross of St. George. Then it was that all hope of French domination on this continent ended and the long struggle between Saxon and Latin for its possession was at an end in America forever, in favor of the former. As the banners of England floated over the tide waters, Mr. Bancroft says, "the place, at the suggestion of Forbes, was with one voice named Pittsburgh. It is an enduring monument to the memory of William Pitt. America has raised statues to him that have been wrecked by time and storm, of which not one stone remains upon another, but so long as the Allegheny and the Monongahela shall flow to make the Ohio, so long as the Scotch tongue shall be the language of freedom in the boundless valleys that these waters traverse, his name shall remain written in the gateway of the west." (Applause.)

Word for Greater Pittsburgh.

Thus was Pittsburgh born and baptized. From small beginnings the magnificent city of which we are tonight so proud, as its industrial camp fires light up all the heavens and the noise of its machinery proclaims its ceaseless activity in contributing to the world's wealth, the magnificent city of which we are going to be still more proud when released from the arbitrary lines that falsify its position in the rank of cities, it shall take its rank and the record where it belongs. (Applause.) With its 800,000 inhabitants when it shall be in name the world over as it is in fact the Greater Pittsburgh. (Great applause.)

It was not man only that made Pittsburgh. Nature designed her for the center of industrial enterprise. Situated in the midst of raw materials of unbounded wealth, she has the facilities for manufacture. Situated at the headwaters of the Ohio, with the Monongahela on the one side and the Allegheny on the other, she has all the facilities for distribution.

Available raw materials and transportation are the two great features in manufacturing development. Pittsburgh has both, although she has lately outgrown the latter. But it was not make Pittsburgh, neither did nature make Pittsburgh. She is what she is because largely of that pioneer race, whose descendants throughout all the generations have kept the virtues that conquered the savage wilderness—courage, honesty, thrift, the virtues that belongs to the maker of steel. (Applause.)

Benefits of Good Laws.

And then, to generous nature and hardy manhood is to be added the benefits of such wise national politics as have been best adapted to the development of our natural resources. By the adoption of such policy the United States has marched to the front as the first of the manufacturing nations of the world, with half billion of establishments with an output equal to $13,000,000,000 with a value double the value of the manufactures of the United Kingdom and equal to the aggregate value of the manufactures of France and Germany and Russia.

By the adoption of the same policies Pennsylvania has become the greatest manufacturing state of the greatest manufacturing nation of the world (applause) especially in the manufacture of steel, and that is a test of the capacity to hold the manufacturing supremacy. Last year Great Britain produced of pig iron only a little less than double the entire product of Great Britain. In 1870 the United States made one fourth as much steel as England, last year we made twice as much steel as England. Only 30 years ago our annual output of steel, that necessity of civilization, was less than 7,000 tons last year it was nearly 3,000,000 tons. Less than 17 years ago we made in this country not a single pound of tin plate; last year we made nearly 400,000 tons. (Applause.)

Allegheny County's Supremacy.

The same policy that made the nation great as a manufacturing nation and the state great as the manufacturing state, has made Allegheny county the greatest manufacturing county on the face of the globe. (Applause.) Last year she made 25 per cent of all the pig iron produced in the United States, 33 per cent of the Bessemer steel ingots and castings, 47 per cent of the open hearth steel of the United States, nearly 27 per cent of the crucible steel, over 20 per cent of all kinds of steel, over 24 per cent of all kinds of rails, over 60 per cent of the structural shapes and over 32 per cent of the entire product of iron. Her policy has made the Western Pennsylvania district, of which Allegheny is the center, the greatest manufacturing district in all the world. Nowhere else in all the world within the same area is to be found more wealth in manufactures, more establishments, more improved machinery, a higher standard of wages, a more intelligent army of workers, more happy homes, more comfort, more contentment, more concentrated American happiness than in that district.

I have just one other word to say. I think it eminently fitting that the chamber of commerce should put on the outside of its menu the picture of its first president, a man of great purity of private life, of lofty purpose, of broad and statesmanlike views, full of the milk of human kindness, years of heart and open of hand, for many years a representative of the Pittsburgh district in the national congress, a man in his life-time lover and revered by all who knew him and after whose death his memory is universally revered—Gen. Thomas M. Howe. (Applause.)

I now have the pleasure of introducing to you a man whose life has been devoted to the subject of transportation, who has theoretical and practical knowledge as a railroad man and who, by his great ability, has attained to the presidency of one of the great trunk lines of the country, President L. F. Loree, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. (Great applause.)

Loree's Plain Talk.

President Loree of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad spoke in part as follows:

Mr. Toastmaster and gentlemen of the chamber of commerce: I want to thank you very heartily for the pleasure of being with you this evening. As a resident of this neighborhood for over six years, I hold myself to be part and parcel with you. Doing business in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, in Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis and Chicago, in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, I have watched with great solicitude your position in the race for municipal supremacy. If you judge by the form of your public press, if you judge by the man in the street, I take it you would be warranted in thinking yourself in the flood tide of prosperity with an assured future.

To me you seem to have arrived at the critical stage in your affairs. I came here feeling that your future really depended upon the wisdom with which you treated two subjects of prime importance—first, your credit, and, second, your transportation. I have been very much relieved to find that the information I gathered from your press as to the condition of your credit was not justified by the facts. I had supposed that, with a return for taxation of $700,000,000, with a limitation on your borrowing of 7 per cent on that account, with a public debt of $21,000,000, your credit was exhausted. I find, however, that you are entitled to set off against that debt the $600,000 that you have in your sinking fund, and that you still have financial resources.

A Touch on Bridge Raising.

A municipality or corporation that has exhausted its borrowing power, though it has not been refused permission to use the fortunate position of a bankrupt, still pecuniarily fixed limitation to its growth. It is a great relief to me to find that no such limitation is upon you, and to find that for the responsibility of the future you have resources upon which to draw.

Your means of transportation consist, I take it, of the waterways, the highways and the railways. When I say waterways I do not have in mind the blue water of the great lakes, but the rivers and creeks, the bayous and lagoons upon which not one ton of coal or coke ever rids or sails a ton of freight, but whose clamor fills the mighty heaven. A suggestion has been recently made and although by your chairman of the raising of bridges over the Allegheny river from their present height of 35 feet above pool level to a height of 50 feet, while the Union bridge at the Point, it is suggested, should be raised to a height of 70 feet. Now I have made some pictures and I went down on Sixth street and drew chalk marks on the buildings to see just what that would mean. And the disfigurement you would suffer under those circumstances so appalled me that I have not been able to give a rational consideration to the subject since.

I am not one of those who take an extreme view of the navigation question. I would be perfectly willing to support a measure in the river and harbor bill that would provide an annual appropriation of $3,000,000 to secure a nine-foot waterway from here to Cairo, but I could not bring myself to support a measure to provide navigation in a rivulet, in Idaho that the engineer reported could only be kept supplied with water by a proper system of artesian wells.

All Interests Must Be Considered.

I have always supposed that I could live in a community where the other fellow lived, if they treat me the same way that they treat themselves. But to dig a ditch to improve the improvement of the navigation of the Allegheny river if it is not done at the expense of the destruction of your highway traffic and your railroad traffic. What sense there would be up to these gentlemen of the river is to improve their methods. They are doing business on the old business of 60 years ago. The rest of us have built large locomotives, equipped with modern and other methods of navigation, but they have still got the old stern-wheelers with the high stacks. Why, I understand that about five days in the year the river gets so high they can't go under the bridges, but I was astonished to find that during those five days the current is so swift that if the bridges were not there, they could not navigate anyway. (Applause.)

When I go up against the question of improving the railroads and that I am in contact with a highway, I am always reminded of my instruction as a youth in grammar. They used to say it was bad, worse, worst. If one of your manufacturers wants a car from a railroad for shipment, he wants it yesterday. (Great laughter.) If he doesn't get it when he wants it, he says we bought the business. If we come here and order a locomotive we cannot get it for 12 months. We are told that is an evidence of business prosperity.

Figures on Railroad Business.

It seems to me that when you get down to the discussion of railways, in talking about your various means of transportation you get down to the real thing. I did think that perhaps you would be interested in hearing a detailed and technical account of how those roads were constructed, maintained, operated, financed and accounted, but afterward I concluded that that perhaps would be a little tiresome at this stage of the evening, so I thought that after all the relation to the municipality could perhaps best be shown by a statement of the distribution of their money.

Now you have in Pittsburgh the Pennsylvania railroad, the Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. During the year 1902, estimating for November and December, those four roads shall have spent in Allegheny county for wages, $41,049,320, for improvements, $10,-500,000; that is, on their own properties, $51,549,320. They will have bought in Allegheny county supplies costing $13,062,000 and equipment to the amount of $17,568,000. That is, they will have spent here this year $77,732,320, one-fifth of what you people swear to be the valuation of your property for the purpose of taxation. (Applause.)

Now, lest it be said that this is an exceptional year, I have taken a period of six years, which embraced two years of hard times, two years of medium times and two years of very good times. In these six years these four roads expended for wages, $41,525,158, a total of $250,575,531. Was for supplies, $67,561,508, and for equipment, $41,529,158, a total of $250,575,531. Was there ever so splendid a custodian as those roads constitute?

Reaching for World's Trade.

Mr. Parry said:

Seven years ago there assembled in Cincinnati some 200 manufacturers, brought together to devise means by which American industries could be rescued from the prostration which held them at that time. You will remember the dark days from 1893 to 1897, when it seemed as if the sun had set for American prosperity. Many branches of our home trade were languishing and one in 17 per cent were struggling for life, against the disease of ill-timed legislation. The sale for American products in the home market was at the lowest ebb since the civil war, and yet, with that grit which has made the name of America famous the world over, our manufacturers would not give up, but cast about for some plan by which the dearth of trade at home could be offset by finding new markets in foreign lands. So it was that a call went out asking that the leading manufacturers of the country meet in Cincinnati in January, 1898, that measures might be adopted for the capture of a portion of the world's trade which had hitherto been considered the property of the aggressive European nations.

Thus was born the National Association of Manufacturers. The child born of such sickly surroundings has, in seven years, grown to the strength of a young giant. When we set out to call to the attention of the world's buyers the superiority of American goods, we inaugurated that grand work which has seen its culmination in the stupendous figures of foreign trade, the total of which has astonished the financial experts not only of our country, but of all the commercial nations.

The Association's Great Work.

We are now handling exclusively the foreign trade of over 1,000 of the greatest exporting manufacturing establishments of the United States. We are in direct touch with the majority of the large buyers over the face of the globe and we know the credit standing of almost every merchant of worth of the world, whether he be a Syrian, Turk or Chinese, and if there are some whom we do not know, we have an easy way of finding out. Our trade index, printed in the four leading commercial languages, soon each year to every leading foreign buyer of the world. This book has brought America thousands in trade.

As time went on and the work of our Association developed, we found ourselves gradually drifting from the original purposes which brought us together. We found that organized manufacturers must meet new duties and almost insensibly we have been brought into contact with almost every great movement affecting our national life. So it has come that the export future of our Association has, while important and valuable, has become subordinated to the higher and broader responsibilities which have settled upon the shoulders of our organization. We have generally agreed that trade must be maintained in the United States unless by force or organization that to retain and further this prosperity the intelligence of the business men must unite for the formulation of new laws as to the proper commercial policy of the country.

Our association was one of the first to recognize the absolute necessity of a department of commerce and industries. According to the last statistical figures given out at Washington, the value of manufactured products of the United States exceeded that of the agricultural. It is axiomatic that happiness and contentment follow well employment, and if it is true that the manufacturers of the United States are giving this country more wealth than agriculture, then the corollary follows that a great portion of the happiness and contentment of our land flows from their labors. So we feel that we are justified—in fact we have the absolute right to insist that the manufacturers of the United States shall have a cabinet portfolio.

Great Reforms Supported.

Our association has been called upon to throw its weight in the great movement for irrigation of the arid lands of the west. We have given our indorsement to the Isthmian canal. We are working to bring about a reform in our consular service, by which the speed-word of politics may be removed from the important consular positions, and in their place be appointed young and aggressive Americans trained to the requirements of the work.

In the current work of protecting the American manufacturer, we have been compelled to assume a position not much to the liking of a considerable section of organized labor. Our association placed itself on record at the last annual convention as being opposed to the eight-hour bill and the anti-conspiracy measure, both of which are pending in the senate for action this winter.

The eight-hour bill, which has passed the lower branch of congress three times in succession, imposes a penalty of $5 per day upon any manufacturer contracting with the government for work, every employe who is permitted to work over eight hours per day. According to the proposed law a man will not be allowed to work over time for the benefit of his family. The anti-conspiracy measure legalizes the violation of the "picket" and the "boycott." This bill was imported to this country from England, and is in two sections of an act entitled, "The Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act," which passed the parliament of Great Britain in 1875.

Opposition to Eight-Hour Day.

The eight-hour bill is little understood by our business men, but an investigation of it will show that it means the quasi confiscation of the establishments of a thousand or more of our manufacturers who are contracting with the government. Mr. Gompers, who fathers this bill, has frankly admitted before the house committee on labor that this proposed law is simply an opening wedge to force the eight-hour day upon the entire country.

It is manifestly true that, if the hours of labor are to be shortened from ten to eight hours, then 20 per cent more men must be employed in order that there may be the same output. Inasmuch as the factory worker of today is simply an adjunct to a machine, it follows that 20 per cent more machinery must be purchased, and there must be 20 per cent more floor space. It is a painful thing to tell an employer that he must go out and borrow 20 per cent of his capitalization in order that such an academic law as this can be put in force.

The law is intended to apply immediately and most harshly to the printing and publishing and manufacturing plants. Mr. Gompers tells his followers that, by some inscrutable working of economic law, they are to receive ten hours' pay for eight hours' work. Either the wages will be reduced or they will remain the same. If they are to be reduced, the workers don't want the law. If they are to remain the same, then the profit of a manufactured article will be changed to a fixed one, unless the manufacturer can increase the selling price of the product. If he increases the price, then he reduces the demand for it, for the people generally are largely of a high-priced article as they are of a low-priced. If the demand falls off, there will be a less demand for labor, and in a few years after the passage of such an absurd law, the deluded advocates of this socialistic measure will find themselves before the closed doors of the factory reduced to bitter meditation as to the blessings of the shorter work day.

Cannot Compete on Short Days.

Germany and France have adopted the best designs of American machinery and are working their people 12 and 14 hours per day. We cannot compete with these countries for the world-trade on an eight-hour basis. How can we? Labor throughout the country may be from a standpoint of sentiment, yet sentiment cannot rule any business without destruction. Business is business, and all the eight-hour bills in the world will not prevent the smarter nation from working just as many hours as it pleases if thereby it can secure more of the material blessings of the world by so doing.

Such laws are inimical to the spirit of our government, they smack of paternalism. If the government shall have the right to say how long men shall work, then, in a few years we shall have the government saying how much they shall get for their work, and the next step will be to say where they shall turn out, and lastly, who shall be the employed. These are not the functions of government. These are matters for private adjustment between employer and employe.

The eight-hour bill is simply another part of the program of restricted output which is destroying England as a competitive commercial nation. The employers and employes of that country are working at cross-purposes. The trades unions, by their ill-advised demands, have thrown England out of its proper economic relation with other countries so that the ponderous English manufacturer to advance is practically gone.

Action Must be Prompt.

It will not do to take any chances on the passage of this eight-hour bill. In 1896 the state of Utah passed a bill restricting the hours of labor of the employes of factories, mines and smelters to eight hours per day. This law was appealed to the United States court on the ground that it was in violation of article 14 of the constitution of the United States, which says that no state shall pass any law abridging the right of any subject in his pursuit of life, liberty and happiness. The supreme court held that the eight-hour law does not infringe any of the rights of the citizens of Utah, and was declared valid.

This law must be opposed, not that we are against the shorter work-day, but that the right is to be left where it has long been held a right which belongs to private agreement between employer and employe, and we deny the justice of government endeavoring to regulate those matters which come within the province of individual adjustment.

Without organization the employers of this country are as a rabble against a disciplined force. Gompers declares that he will be organizing unions at the rate of 1,000 per year. He declares that the program will never be abandoned until every worker in the country is under the proposition of rates unionism. We cannot accept this program, and perhaps it would not be wise to do so. Therefore, it is self-evident that if we desire to retain the integrity of our personal rights as employers, we also must organize for the maintenance of those rights.

Warned Against Labor Leaders.

It is absolutely necessary that we organize because of the fact that the average business man is a child in the hands of a professional labor leader. These labor leaders in a sense are profound students of sociology and economics. They spend their days and nights in study in connection with these questions. You cannot go to any city in this country but you will find a dozen undeveloped statesmen themselves philosophic students of the labor question. These men talk glibly on the effects, beneficial or otherwise, of all the great economic movements which the several nations of the earth have had to meet.

Previous to the factory system there was a time when there was a close relationship between employer and employe, but with the coming of the factory system, the average employer is further from those who work for him than the sun is from the earth. He has not the time to interest himself in the individual welfare of his employes and he knows not what they are doing; but, gentlemen, these employers are studying. They are mastering questions as to which many business men have only a limited knowledge. It may be that these labor leaders can see but the theoretical side of these questions, yet they can confront us with alleged facts and figures which we cannot deny on the spot because of our lack of patient investigation.

The business men of the United States must become greater students of economic questions as related to labor. If we have no time to study the various propositions advanced by labor, then we must pay men who are willing to give their entire attention to these matters.

Trade Unions Must be Accepted.

We have no quarrel with organized labor and we should have none. Organization is here to stay. If corporate capital has the right to organize, so have the men who work the same right to unionize for the purpose of collective bargaining. Our position should be not that of destroyers of organization among men, but rather that of commending these organizations, if they will but work harmoniously with and contribute to further the highest destiny of our republic. This destiny cannot reach its final fruition without organization among men.

The employers of the United States must find a means of joining hands, so that they can protect themselves from shortsighted laws. Organization should have no other mission than to wisely and safely direct the economic forces which are gradually altering the system of our government. Labor, the giant, is awakening! It feels its strength—its power. The American tree schools, new ideas, new ideals in the heart of the American youth. Labor, armed with giant strength but defective knowledge of economic laws, demanding its share of the material things of this world. This giant can be led safely if its existence is recognized, but if left to flounder aimlessly in an effort to better its own condition, we need not be surprised if wreckage shall follow in its footsteps.

Urged to Organize.

If we meet this force among men called organization kindly, firmly, decently, asking no advantage which does not rightly belong to us, but simply demanding that the problems which stagger us shall be calmly and intelligently considered, then we shall be able to move forward, without those violent dislocations which have so frightened the capitalistic that point of supreme industrial development which should be the natural destiny of our land.

The National association of manufacturers is growing with the rapidity which has surprised the veteran members of the organization. Manufacturers feel the necessity of one great compact and central organization which shall represent their interests as to all things which effect their well being. Organization can only be met by counter-organization.

Membership in the National Association of Manufacturers protects you from the subtle effects of legislation, which, if once permitted to dominate the development of our country, came later with terrific effect thus to retard our growth. But by organization we can stop vicious legislation, no matter from what source it comes. We have no fight against organization, but we do believe in the right to protect our country, our commerce and ourselves, and we propose to do so, no matter what the cost.

Capt. Dovener on Waterways.

Capt. Dovener, in opening, said: "In the early dawn of time, when the Creator divided the dry land from the water, and this continent looked up into His face and He blessed it, at the same time inland waterways were created." The speaker went on to say that he was glad to be in a city interested in waterways to the great extent Pittsburgh is. He spoke of the Ohio as "the grandest stream of this country, one in the improvement of which 13,000,000 people were interested.

He said there should be no hostility between those representing the railroads and the waterways; that neither suffered from the improvement of the other—rather, was benefited. He gave figures to show the wonderful tonnage carried on the Ohio. He said the improvement of waterways had steadily marked the history of the country in the matter of growth and improvement. He told of the resources of West Virginia and the need of river improvements to fully develop those wonderful resources. He declared emphatically for a 9-foot stage in the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Cairo, and in closing paid a warm tribute to Congressman Dalzell, who, he said, could be counted on to do as much as any man could do to bring about such a condition.

Congressman-Elect Brown spoke briefly on the community of interest that should exist between labor and capital and of the necessity for harmony between the two classes. He cited the Pennsylvania railroad as a shining example of the existence of that community of interest and harmony, and said that to the same was due much of the great prosperity this section now enjoys.

James F. Burke spoke of Pittsburgh, the wonderful, magnificent city, where prosperity now makes its abiding place. As usual, he was eloquent and his remarks were frequently interrupted by applause.

The committee in charge of the banquet was as follows:

James H. Willock chairman, Charles A. Painter, treasurer, D. F. Collingwood secretary, John D. Barbour, Jr., D. L. Gillespie, William I. Mustin, William H. Keech, Maj. A. P. Barnfield, H. P. Bope, George T. Oliver, H. Kirke Porter, Edward A. Woods, Hon. William M. Kennedy.

An Ideal Woman's Medicine.

So says Mrs. Josie Irwin, of 325 So. College St., Nashville, Tenn., of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never during the lifetime of this wonderful medicine has the demand for it been so great as it is to-day.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and throughout the length and breadth of this great continent come the glad tidings of woman's sufferings relieved by it, and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women saying that it will and positively does cure the worst forms of female complaints.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are puzzled about their health to write her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Such correspondence is seen by women only, and no charge is made.

"Chas. M. Stieff.

"Dear Sir: I have a Stieff Piano which was purchased for me by my father in 1860, forty-two years ago, and it has been in constant use since. I have taught music for thirty-five years, and my pupils have used it daily. I have never had the least trouble with it, and it has the same quick, responsive action and clear, sympathetic tone it had over forty years ago. I feel that no praise is too warm for so faithful a friend.

Hallelujah Wedding Celebrated at Salvation Army Barracks.

MADE GALA OCCASION

Soldiers Were Out in Force and Regulation Ceremony Was Performed—Recruits and Civilians Broke Rules and Threw Rice.

A grand hallelujah wedding was performed at the Salvation Army Barracks in Diamond square last night, to the accompaniment of prayer, a bass drum and cheers. The happy couple were Charles Gilbert, a private in the army, and Capt. Rosa Knight, a well-known officer. Private Gilbert is a surveyor by profession. He was converted at the barracks two years ago. Col. Richard Holz of the jurisdiction that embraces Cleveland and Pittsburgh was the warrior who officiated as minister at the marriage. He had come all the way from Cleveland for the sole purpose of performing the ceremony, for he knew Capt. Knight, who is a young English woman, very well.

The barracks was crowded, and everybody willingly paid the slight fee demanded upon entrance. At about 8 p. m. the betrothed couple, the officers of the army and many of the privates entered the hall in procession, preceded by the Salvation Army band. All took seats on the stage, the bride and groom on either side of Col. Holz.

Adjutant Hartman presided over the meeting. He called on various officers of the army to speak, and addresses were made by representatives of the married and single members of the army, of the men and women and the young men and girls. Capt. Reuter has a slight German accent, and when she spoke, rather humorously, her accent and her words were rapturously applauded. She told of the advantages of being an old maid and said she hoped to remain one, although she wished the couple about to be married a happy and holy life.

Among the speakers were Staff Capt. White, Adj. Hartman, Mrs. Adjt. Hartman, Adjt. Dennis and Col. Holz. Col. Holz said that when he was informed of the engagement of Rosa Knight and Charles Gilbert he felt partly responsible, for Capt. Knight was many thousands miles away from her home and kindred, and he wrote, asking her to consider the situation prayerfully. She had done this, he knew, and she felt that her marriage would be not only for her own good, but for the good of the Salvation Army and God's cause.

The bride and groom then stood up and Col. Holz read the marriage services of the Salvation Army, the man and woman faithfully promising to continue the "war," as Salvation Army soldiers. The ring was placed by the groom on the third finger of the bride's left hand, and Col. Holz declared the couple man and wife. Instantly some of the unregenerate non-Salvationists flung handfuls of rice at the bride and groom, and although it was against the rules of the army, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert seemed to enjoy the rice-throwing. Three cheers were given twice, once for the husband and once for the wife, and after the couple had made little speeches the audience was dismissed.

MOZART CLUB CONCERT.

Haydn's "Creation" Well Rendered Before a Good Audience—Work of the Soloists.

In spite of the inclement weather, a large audience greeted the Mozart club at the first concert of this season. The work chosen for presentation was Haydn's "Creation." The soloists were Mrs. Mary Illasem de Moss of New York, soprano; Edwin H. Douglass of Cleveland, tenor, and Herbert Witherspoon of New Castle, basso. These distinguished artists, with the Pittsburgh Orchestra and a chorus of 250 voices, made a most artistic ensemble, and gave the great oratorio a dignified, balanced rendering.

James P. McCollum conducted the performance with a nice sense of musical propriety and a very faithful expression of the lofty spirit which distinguishes the score. The chorus work was good, especially noticeable for unity and spontaneity.

Mrs. de Moss was generously applauded for her superb vocalization and the charming expression with which she sang her solo parts. Mrs. de Moss is no stranger here, and her brilliant coloratur voice is one of the most delightful of its type.

Edwin H. Douglass made his Pittsburgh debut last night and was favorably received. He has an agreeable tenor voice of superior quality, and utterly lacking in the suspicion of nasality with which so many tenors are banned.

As for Mr. Witherspoon, no one who has heard him can do ought but admire his superb basso contanto, and his excellent vocal technique. He sang the "Raphael" last night with the greatest intelligence and sympathy.

MUSICAL HOUSE WARMING

The housewarming of the new study home and recital hall of the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music was completed last night, with pupils, past and present, in charge of the impromptu musical program, which closed with dancing. The first half of the dedication Monday night was in charge of Victor Herbert, Luiei von Kunits and Henri Merck of the Pittsburgh Orchestra, and closed with a luncheon at the Hotel Schenley.

Henri Merck, who has knowledge of all the prominent recital halls of Europe, declared that he never knew any to surpass the new one just opened in Pittsburgh. The hall seats 650 and can crowd 750. Outside of recitations by the pupils, the purpose is to use it for smaller concerts which do not require the space of the Carnegie Music hall. The study rooms are in the basement.

Those participating in the recital last night were encored again and again, each contributing several selections. They were as follows: Miss Mary Johnston, pupil and teacher at the conservatory; Mrs. Grace Rineldaffer, soprano of the First United Presbyterian church; Miss Elizabeth Webster, assistant director of the conservatory; Stephen Leyshon, organist of the First United Presbyterian church and teacher at the conservatory, and Miss Clara McLean, contralto of the Point Breeze Presbyterian church.

Many a distressed sufferer from Lung or Throat trouble, who had lost hope under the false idea that his disease was incurable, has been restored to perfect health by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant.

YOU'LL GIVE THANKS.

Campbell's Advertisement Tomorrow Will Give You Ample Cause.

The Gazette will be the only paper in Pittsburgh to contain Campbell's list of Friday Bargains tomorrow, so the readers of this paper will have a particularly good chance to capture some brilliant specials Friday morning. So turn to this feature of the paper first of all when it comes to your home tomorrow.

If you drop into "The People's Store" today you can carry home (or have sent home), a double turkey roaster, with wire tin drip pan and heavy wire dripper, for only a little more than half the usual cost of this Thanksgiving essential. Some one will likewise get a $14 quartered oak dining table for $8.80.

BRUCE HEAD IS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Dr. Ellis Duncan May Yet Have to Face Trial on Charge of Murder.

Bruce Head, who was shot and wounded by Dr. Ellis A. Duncan, back of the Greentree camp, near Crafton last month, is again in a critical condition. Inflammation has set in and blood poisoning is anticipated by his attending physician, Dr. R. L. Walker. The change was noticed yesterday by Dr. Walker when he started to dress the wound in the camp, where Head is still confined. Dr. Walker remained with him during the greater part of the day, attempting to reduce the inflammation. At a late hour last night he had not been successful.

Dr. Duncan was informed of the change in Head's condition yesterday afternoon by his attorney, George Elphinstone. The attorney called at the jail when he was informed of Head's dangerous condition and told his client of it. Dr. Duncan was greatly depressed on receiving this information.

Everything is being done to bring about Head's recovery. On Monday he was somewhat worse, but the physician attributed this to confinement. When he called at the camp yesterday morning he found Head's wound greatly inflamed.

An attempt was to be made this week to have Dr. Duncan released from the jail on bail. Head's turn for the worse will prevent this.

BROTHER AND SISTER MARRY.

Double Wedding in the Bost Family of Duquesne.

A brother and sister in the same family were wedded within an hour at different churches in Duquesne yesterday. They are the son and daughter of Louis Bost of Wilmont street, Duquesne. The first wedding took place at 8 o'clock in the Holy Name Catholic church, the bride being Miss Kennedy and the groom Thomas A. Bost. The service was performed by the pastor, the Rev. David Shanahan.

At 9 o'clock the second wedding took place, when Miss Catherine Gertrude Bost and John Hoey were married by the Rev. Carl Dewall, pastor of St. Joseph's German Catholic church. The guests' list at each wedding was large. Many attended both ceremonies. After a wedding breakfast at the Bost home both couples started for an extended wedding tour in the east.

Rehearsal and Dinner.

The rehearsal for the Albertson-Lyons wedding took place last evening and was followed by a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Albertson for their daughter and the members of the bridal party. The wedding this evening at 8 o'clock in the East Liberty Presbyterian church will be one of the most brilliant affairs of the week.

Society

THANKSGIVING DAY will be observed tomorrow with a dash and vim at the Country club in the Beechwood boulevard. Preparations are being made for a gala affair, and as one man at the club said yesterday, "there will be great doings." The events of the day will open with the hunt, when the horses and their riders will follow the trail of the anise seed bag in lieu of the fox. A very spirited course will be followed, one which can be kept in sight, however, by those who will follow the ride from vantage seats in carriages and automobiles. Nearly every member of the Hunt club will turn out tomorrow, several hastening from New York, whither they went for the horse show. Among the followers of the hounds will be the women riders of the club, some of whom are expert horsewomen.

After the hunt will come the breakfast at the club house, a very formal though decidedly picturesque affair. Mingling with the horsemen in their gay coats, the women in their more sombre attire, will be the men and women who will take part in the golf tournament, which is to be one of the important events of the day at the Country club. The club house will be crowded with people, as between 400 and 500 guests are expected. The club house will be in gala attire throughout the day, with decorations of laurel and smilax, and in the evening dinner will be served, to which many will go out who will not appear earlier in the day.

The day will be similarly observed at the other clubs. Several of the members will form a house party at the Allegheny Country club, where golf will be the chief event of the day, with music and a dance in the evening. Golf will occupy the attention of the members of the Pittsburgh Golf club throughout the day, while less formal plans will be carried out at the Brighton Country club, concluding with a subscription dance in the evening for the club members and their friends.

Miss Laura Smith Makes Her Debut.

Mrs. Persifor F. Smith gave a large afternoon tea yesterday, at which her second daughter, Miss Laura Smith, made her debut in society. Miss Smith was numbered among the debutantes of last winter, but because of the death of her aunt, Mrs. Alan Wood, her formal introduction was deferred until this season. The reception took place at the home of Mrs. Smith in Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside, and the hours were from 3 o'clock until 6. It was a very pretty tea, the handsome colonial residence affording admirable opportunities for an entertainment of its nature, in the drawing room, polished in the hard wood of the mountains and her mother received. The debutante's numerous bouquets made a bright bit of color in the dainty apartment, while palms and ferns with chrysanthemums appeared in the large central hall and the library. In the dining room, where tea was served, exquisite orchids formed the table decorations with beautiful orchid-like shades over the candles and electric lights. The hostess wore a handsome reception gown of gray crepe meteor, while the debutante was prettily gowned in white mousseline and lace.

Among the assisting ladies were Mrs. William J. Holland, Mrs. Harry Sellers McKee, Mrs. Thomas M. McKee, Mrs. James Harden Hays, Mrs. James McClurg Hays, Mrs. Joseph R. Woodwell, Miss Ada McClung, Miss Margaretta Wood, Miss Helen Horne, Miss Lois Miller, the Misses Friend, Miss Sallie Speer Dunbar, Miss Gertrude Childs, Miss Pennock, Miss Jeannette Hawkins, Miss Beatrice Hawkins, Miss Elizabeth Marshall, Miss Ethel Byram and Miss Louise McKay.

An At Home in Shadyside.

In agreeable contrast to the disagreeable weather of yesterday afternoon was the brilliantly lighted interior of Mrs. W. Linford Smith's home in Morewood avenue, Shadyside. Mrs. Smith gave a large "at home" from 3 o'clock until 6. Beautiful decorations of tropical plants and flowers appeared throughout the house, while the many lights were prettily shaded in colors to correspond with the flowers. Mrs. Smith and her mother, Mrs. Lee S. Smith, received together in the drawing rom, where vases of American Beauty roses afforded the only brilliant coloring. Chrysanthemums appeared in the library and hall and in the dining room a centre piece of ferns adorned the round table with its quaint candelabra and bonbon dishes. The shades covering the candles were adorned with clusters of grapes, the idea of fruit being further carried out in the ices and confections served.

Assisting the hostess were a few of her friends, Mrs. William J. Donner, Mrs. James Holland Hammond, Mrs. Richard M. Jennings, Mrs. William R. Kuhn, Mrs. John G. Jennings and Mrs. John P. Knable.

A Large Afternoon Euchre.

Mrs. John P. Ober and her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Straub, gave a large afternoon euchre yesterday at the home of Mrs. Ober, in Beacon street, overlooking Schenley park. It was a beautiful entertainment conducted on a large scale. The game was six-hand euchre and 10 tables were surrounded by the 250 guests of the hostess. The tables were placed in the great hall room. The hall room was decorated with palms, effectively massed, and large clusters of pink chrysanthemums. Chrysanthemums also appeared in the drawing room where Mrs. Ober and Mrs. Straub received their guests, palms and yellow chrysanthemums adding to the picturesqueness of the large English reception hall with its great fireplace. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. A. A. Frauenheim, Mrs. A. A. Vilsack, Mrs. William Winterhalter, Mrs. Charles Dicken and Miss Anna Gerwig. Among the prizewinners were Mrs. A. A. Frauenheim, Mrs. Vilsack, Mrs. J. A. Scott, Mrs. William Scott, Mrs. James A. Friday, Mrs. William Winterhalter, Mrs. Sauers, Miss Bessie Holden, Mrs. William Friday, Mrs. Charles Ober, Mrs. Lea and Mrs. Williams.

At 8:30 o'clock last night occurred the marriage of Miss Myra Porter Murdock to Percy Mortimer Bishop, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Henry Murdock, on Chestnut street, Sewickley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. O. Campbell, pastor of the Sewickley Presbyterian church, before about 100 guests. The maid of honor was Miss Ada Price of Pittsburgh, and the best man was Walter Wilson of Sewickley. An orchestra furnished the music for the evening. The bride was handsomely gowned in white peau de chine, with point lace trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was gowned in pink, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The wedding was a pink affair. CHANGES IN SCHOOL LAWS ARE PROPOSED

State Superintendent Recommends Compulsory Vaccination Law.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 25.—The annual report of Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, superintendent of public instruction, for the school year ending the first Monday of last June, was today submitted to Gov. Stone. The report recommends that the number of school directors in townships be reduced from six to five to avoid the frequent deadlocks in the election of teachers and the selection of text books.

The report also suggests that some legislation be enacted to avoid the clash between the compulsory education and vaccination laws, so that parents may be required to have their children vaccinated. It also suggests that one enumeration instead of two during the odd years of all children between 6 and 16 years for school assessment purposes would be a saving of money in every county.

Dr. Schaeffer commends the teachers who spend much of their time at summer schools. He recommends some provision for summer training for those teachers who cannot afford to attend summer schools at a great distance from their homes. He thinks a modest appropriation for the maintenance of one or more summer schools where ambitious teachers can combine study and recreation would be wisely applied.

The appropriation of $50,000 has stimulated the establishment of high schools in a number of townships. Dr. Schaeffer recommends that this appropriation be doubled by the next legislature. He says something should be done to raise the minimum salary of teachers. Good work cannot be expected from teachers who get less than $50 a month. Increase of the appropriation has not increased the salaries of the teachers.

Son Accused of Killing His Aged Parent—Deceased Lived in House Alone.

READING, PA., Nov. 25.—John Blankenhorn, aged 81 years, was found dead last night in the house where he lived alone. The old man's death is said to be the result of injuries. There are marks of violence on the head and hands to support this view, and Coroner Moyer will hold a post mortem examination to determine the real cause of death.

This afternoon a warrant was served on a son, John Blankerhorn, Jr., charging aggravated assault on his father. If tomorrow's investigation warrants, the charge will be changed to manslaughter.

HOTEL GUEST FELL THROUGH THE CEILING

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Michael Farrell of Pittsburgh secured a room at the Imperial hotel at this place last night and some time towards morning he got up in his sleep, found his way into the attic of the building and began wandering about, stepping from joist to joist. Some times he stepped between the joists and went through the lath and plaster up to his arm-pits, causing a mass of debris to fall on the faces and heads of the occupants of the rooms beneath.

Consternation ensued and the entire household was awakened by the plaster falling on them, and the strange sight of a pair of legs dangling from the ceiling above their heads. At last he came down and was taken by a policeman and hurried to the lock-up.

This morning he was given a hearing before Burgess Raymer and was fined $5 and costs for disorderly conduct. He says he dreamed he was hunting for a pot of gold and blames his troubles on the brand of whisky sold at the hotel.

TRIED AND SENTENCED TO PEN IN FIVE HOURS

Man Who Shot a Policeman Given Short Shrift by the Court.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FRANKLIN, PA., Nov. 25.—It only required five hours of the time of today's session of criminal court to try, sentence and start on the road to the penitentiary Joseph Manning, alias Joseph Hawthorne, who shot Policeman O. R. McKibbon at Siverly on August 26. While McKibbon was trying to arrest Manning the latter shot him twice.

Although suffering greatly from his wounds the policeman pluckily held his man until help arrived. Manning was sentenced to eight years nine months in the Western penitentiary, and Sheriff McCollum left for Allegheny with the prisoner this afternoon.

After about 20 witnesses had been examined Manning went on the stand. He admitted the shooting, but claimed that the policeman was drunk and had attacked him first. McKibbon has so far recovered from his wounds as to be able to appear on the stand today against Manning.

SHOTS FROM A STREET DUEL FELL IN CROWD

Policeman Tried to Stop Escaping Prisoner and Latter Returned Fire.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 25.—Intense excitement was created in the busiest portion of Main street here this forenoon by a fusillade of shots between a special coal and iron policeman and an escaping prisoner. Capt. John Richards, officer at Rivere works, had trouble with Beth Dunaway, a young desperado, last night at Rivere works and Dunaway shot at Richards at close range, but missed him and escaped in the dark.

This morning Richards came here and swore out a warrant for Dunaway. Shortly afterward he came across Dunaway on Main street in front of a leading hotel. Dunaway was breaking for a train and Richards called to him to halt. He continued to run. Richards fired two shots in the air and, as his man fled down a side street, he fired directly at him, the shots flying in a crowd that was attracted to the streets by the shooting.

The fleeing man returned the officer's fire at one stage of the flight, but his aim was as bad as Richards'. Dunaway was captured by men who headed him off. Over 1,000 people chased the prisoner.

TRUST FUNDS.

Investments that hold out great promise in the way of profits many times lack the element of safety that should always be of greatest importance. It is for this reason that thousands of dollars of trust funds find their way to the Peoples Savings Bank, Pittsburgh, where safety is certain and where 4 per cent interest, compounded twice a year, represents a very considerable profit. This bank accepts deposits in any amount, either in person or by mail. Booklet will be sent free if you mention this paper.

INTERESTING FACTS

For Nearly Every Man, Woman or Child.

A short time ago we published an article recommending to our readers the new discovery for the cure of Dyspepsia, called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the claims then made regarding the wonderful curative properties of the remedy have been abundantly sustained by the facts. People who were cautious about trying new remedies advertised in the newspapers and were finally induced to give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a trial were surprised and delighted at the results. In many cases a single package costing but 50 cents at any drug store made a complete cure, and in every instance the most beneficial results were reported. From a hundred or more received, we have space to publish only a few of the latest, but assure our readers we receive so many commendatory letters that we shall publish each week a fresh list of genuine, unsolicited testimonials and never publish the same one twice.

From James Yemmeisler, La Crosse, Wis.: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are doing me more good than anything I ever tried, and I was so pleased at results that I gave away several boxes to my friends, who have also had the same benefits."

From Jacob Anthony, Portmurray, N. J.: "I have taken Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with the best results. I had Dyspepsia for six years and had taken a great deal of medicine, but the Tablets seem to take right hold and I feel good. I am a farmer and lime burner and I heartily recommend to everyone who has any trouble with his stomach to use these Tablets."

From Mrs. M. K. West, Preston, Minn.: "I have received surprisingly good effects from using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I gave one-half of my last box to a friend, who also suffered from indigestion, and she had the same good results."

From Mrs. Agnes K. Ralston, Cadillac, Mich.: "I have been taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I am very much better, and feel very grateful for the great benefit I have received in so short a time."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a certain cure for all forms of indigestion. They are not claimed to be a cure-all, but are prepared for stomach troubles only, and physicians and druggists everywhere recommend them to all persons suffering from nervous dyspepsia, sour or acid stomach, heartburn, bloating or wind on stomach and similar disorders.

RAILROAD CHIEF WISHES TO KNOW

VISITS JOHN B. LARKIN

Makes Suggestive Inquiries Regarding Revenue Received from Corporations—Important Ordinance for His Company.

L. F. Loree, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, and G. L. Potter, general manager, called upon Controller Larkin yesterday. It is suspected that the visit portends important developments in connection with the franchises which the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania companies are asking from the city.

Loree and Potter were accompanied by Wm. M. Kennedy, president of the Pennsylvania Trust Company. President Loree said that he wished to ask the controller questions relative to the city finances, and the controller cheerfully agreed to give information.

Mr. Loree inquired regarding the city's bonded indebtedness, its total valuation, present borrowing capacity and revenues from corporations.

Taxes Paid by Corporations.

The most significant question was in relation to the taxes paid to the city by corporations.

"Do you think the corporations pay the city enough taxes?" inquired Mr. Loree.

"I do not," was the prompt reply of Controller Larkin.

Mr. Loree asked the controller what he considered to be a fair tax from corporations. The controller replied that he could not answer the question off-hand, as he had not given this phase of the matter attention for some time. About a year ago he compared Pittsburgh's receipts from corporations with those of Chicago and found this city's revenue far below Chicago's.

Mr. Loree asked how much money the city could borrow without going beyond the limitation of law. The controller replied that the city could issue bonds to the amount of $8,000,000.

Mr. Loree asked how sentiment stands in respect to bond issues. The controller replied that the people were opposed to the present government and for this reason objected to giving the authorities any more money to disburse.

A Question of Confidence.

"As the head of a great corporation, would you be in favor of borrowing money to be spent by subordinates whom you would not trust?" asked the controller, in turn.

"No, I would not," replied Loree.

President Loree and General Manager Potter spent half an hour with the controller. While they did not make known definitely the object of their visit, they gave the controller the impression that they had some proposition to submit to the city in connection with the railroad ordinances pending in councils. Another suggestion is that Mr. Loree was gathering data for his chamber of commerce speech.

One of these ordinances is a franchise for the new Baltimore & Ohio railroad station on the Monongahela wharf, for which the railroad company offers the city an annual rental of $4,000.

The tax agent of the Baltimore & Ohio has been in the city this week. Just what the plans of the railroad are and for what purpose this study of the situation is made, remains as yet undeveloped.

HARD WORK PLANNED TO REVIVE THE K. OF L.

Burns Faction Will Put Ten Organizers in the Local Field.

The executive board of Pittsburgh District Assembly No. 3, Knights of Labor, last night took aggressive steps toward building up anew the old order under the reorganization effected at Niagara Falls, under which President Simon Burns of the Window Glass Workers association is general master workman. The district board, which met at Knights of Labor headquarters, No. 535 Smithfield street, directed the district master workman, John Fernau, who is also chairman of the general executive board of the new organization, to select 10 organizers to work in this district, the selection to be subject to the approval of General Master Workman Burns.

The district assembly has been staying its work of organization til recently, while the fight continued between the Hayes and Parsons faction. Now that the Parsons wing has made common cause with the Burns-Hicks contingent and other interests that have been neutral during the fight, leaving a very small and supporting John W. Hayes, the work to build up the organization here is to start in earnest. It was reported to the meeting last night that several crafts are waiting to come into the organization here.

The Pittsburgh master workman and secretary were directed to issue a circular to all Pittsburgh assemblies, notifying them to recognize only the Burns organization and pay their per capita tax to Thomas H. Canning, the general secretary and treasurer. Reports from the delegates to the Niagara Falls meeting were received.

Thanksgiving at Post Office.

Postmaster Holliday has announced the following schedule for the Pittsburgh postoffice for Thanksgiving Day: Money order and registry offices will be closed all day; one stamp window will be open until 12:30 p. m. for the sale of stamps, envelopes, etc., after which hour and during the evening such articles will be sold at the general delivery windows; general delivery windows at main office will be closed from 11 a. m. to 7 p. m., and open at stations from 7 a. m. to 12 m.; carrier and box windows will be open from 7 a. m. to 12 m.

DOFFS BROADCLOTH AND DONS JUMPERS

Doffing the broadcloth of his calling and donning the jumpers of a mechanic, the Rev. J. F. Blair of the Reformed church of Munhall started in yesterday with hatchet and saw to the building of his own pulpit. He is an expert carpenter, and before he was ordained followed this trade.

The Rev. Mr. Blair is erecting a new church and is acting as foreman on the work. He expects it to be ready for dedication about December 10. The edifice will be a neat frame structure, and when completed will cost in the neighborhood of $1,500.

Sent to a Disorderly House.

Elizabeth Elliott, 15 years old, of Penwith, W. Va., was yesterday taken to the Central police station. The girl says she was sent from Steubenville to a disorderly house in Second avenue to work. Her father was notified. The girl left home a month ago to work in a store in Steubenville.

The Bed Used By Napoleon

However, this style Bed would have been admired just as much by artistic persons, even if it had been designed for no one in particular. It needs no great name to make it effective.

Those who prefer the chaste simplicity of such styles to any other form are especially attracted by this Napoleon Bed.

Made of solid mahogany; head and foot the same height; full size.

A pervasive distinction characterizes every line of this Napoleon Bed—and yet the price is modest—for price is always an inducement at

Today, a stirring, special sale

Of things needed for wear on Thanksgiving. We close at 6 P. M. this evening, as usual, and remain

Closed all day Tomorrow.

Umbrellas for Thanksgiving.

THIS is not in the way of a prediction, but it might rain on Thanksgiving day. The weather has been so erratic of late, and you don't want to risk spotting or spoiling any of your finery.

This purchase of 500 fine taffeta silk umbrellas comes like a windfall—We are enabled to quote a very interesting price—they are all 26-inch, steel rod, Paragon frame, fancy handles—positively waterproof and will give long service—We've sold none better for $1.50 and considered them good value at that price—today for 98c

"THE BIG STORE"

Santa Claus and his toys

WILL be the uppermost thought in most people's minds from now till Christmas. Indeed, buying is already quite brisk. Remember, the big rush before last Christmas? Take warning, then, and select your toys early. You'll save not only time and trouble, but money as well. The prettiest things will, of course, be the first to go, and, as many of the most ingenious toys were imported by us direct from the foreign makers, they cannot be duplicated. All toys selected now will be delivered any time you desire.

☞ The toy wonderland is on the fourth floor, easily reached by all elevators.

thought about your new suit or overcoat yet? Nature's shed her fall coat---why not you? Kaufmann's is the place to put on new plumage.

THEY'RE all here—the correct full dress or Tuxedo, the ultra-fashionable frock and Prince Albert, the genteel sack and cutaway and the nobby double-breasted suits. The short box coats, the long loose and tight-fitting Chesterfields, Gothams and Wiltons and the "in-between" kinds.

If clothing was made on a printing press—ours would be no better than the next store's, but we have the goods to substantiate our clothing ads. A clothing ad cannot be made too strong if founded on fact—just the same logic applies to this: It takes more than thread and cloth to make good clothing—knowing how to use the thread in the goods and how to fashion every inch of it—that's the trick! The difference between "what has been" and "what is to be" is one of the things the high-priced stores charge you for. In our $8.50 and $10 and to a greater degree in our $15 to $35 lines we show "what is to be."

Suits and overcoats.

Thibets—unfinished worsteds—pin checks—tweeds — novelties—Scotch cheviots—bannockburns—cassimeres—oxfords—serges—vicunas—kerseys — cheviots — oxfords — coverts—meltons—worsteds — whipcords—thibets—serges—

These are the materials from which our suits and overcoats are made at these prices.

4-button straight front sacks—3-button double-breasteds—long roll lapel sacks—loose and close-fitting sacks—Short—medium—long—full length — extra long—full and half box.

These are the prevailing styles in which our suits and overcoats are made at these prices.

None but the finest woolens enter into the making of Kaufmann's suits and overcoats, the highest grade linings and trimmings—there is not one thing spared to perfect our garments—they all have a distinct style of their own and are finished in best possible manner—and that word "finish" means unmistakably the character of garments.

8.50 to 10.00

Belgian thibets—Irish tweeds—French vicunas—Scotch cheviots — meltons — cassimeres—unfinished worsteds—English serges, clay worsteds—novelty cloths, oxfords—pin checks—kerseys — whipcords — etc., etc.

These are the materials from which our suits and overcoats are made at these prices.

Single and double-breasted sack — cutaway frocks—Prince Alberts—3 and 4-button sacks and double-breasted. Surtout, Fulton — century — double-breasted frock—paletot, single-breasted frock—Chesterfield—Gotham—Wilton.

15.00 to 35.00

If you've long been imposed upon with the exorbitant charges of custom tailors—then, once you've learned the "Kaufmann method" of selling the finest clothing at one-half the usual profit you'll be an enthusiastic convert. Come to our dept. today and let our salesman clinch this clothing talk with your purchase.

AMERICANS INVESTIGATE MRS. GORE'S DEATH

Reported to Have Accepted Accident Theory of French Experts.

OPINION IS WITHHELD

De Rydzewski May Not Be Further Prosecuted—The Deceased Woman to Be Interred in France for Five Years.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, Nov. 25.—In spite of the rigid secrecy which has been maintained by the officials and by the commission of American doctors concerning the result of the autopsy conducted by the latter on the body of Mrs. Ellen Gore, it is learned from an authoritative source that the doctors tend individually to the acceptance of the theory of an accident, and the probabilities are that their official report will strongly incline to that theory, if it does not positively assert it, thus bringing the French and American doctors into agreement and relieving the case of any international significance.

At least, two of the American doctors hold an outright accident theory, and they will seek to have that view incorporated in the official report. The grounds for this conclusion are the following:

The provisional release of De Rydzewski yesterday is considered as establishing the view of the French authorities of the innocence of the Russian, but he is still under surveillance, and if he attempts to leave this city he will be liable to arrest as a fugitive from justice. The American officials do not expect that De Rydzewski will be further actively prosecuted.

The burial place of the remains of Mrs. Gore has been changed to Bagneux cemetery owing to its being unsectarian. Mr. Gowdy has leased a lot there for five years, during which time the relatives of the deceased will decide whether they will remove the body to America.

The officials of the United States consulate this afternoon attended the sealing of the body of Mrs. Gore in a metallic casket, which will not be again opened.

MRS. HELEN STOGDILL GORE,
Whose death in Paris is being investigated.

OCEAN STEAMERS COLLIDE.

British Boat Seriously Damaged in Encounter With American Vessel at a Foreign Port.

ST. VINCENT, CAPE VERDE, Nov. 25.—The Prince line steamer Westminster, Capt. Black, which left New York on November 9, bound for Cape Town, while entering this port today collided with the British steamer Edderton, bound for Fremantle and Melbourne. The Westminster had her bows damaged, and on survey it was recommended that temporary repairs should be made, but there was no necessity to discharge the vessel.

The Edderton had several plates badly indented and the rivets were started above and below the water line. She is leaking 12 inches hourly. As a result of the survey it was recommended to discharge 150 tons of her bunker coal and to make temporary repairs. A lighter was also sunk in the collision.

GEN. GOMEZ SETTLES THE HAVANA STRIKE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HAVANA, Nov. 25.—The Central Labor union tonight decided to call off the strike, and committees were appointed to inform the various unions of this division. There probably will be a complete resumption of work tomorrow. Much of the credit for the settlement of the strike is due to Gen. Gomez, who headed the committee which consulted today the officials of the Havana Commercial Company, against whom the strike was first directed.

The officials maintained that they had not discriminated against Cuban apprentices, the fact being that the company's books showed that over 90 per cent of its apprentices were Cubans. Gen. Gomez and the committee afterwards met the Central Labor union, and the old warrior did not spare words in his condemnation of the action of the union in calling out the workmen.

The returns from the hospitals today give the total of persons wounded during the rioting of yesterday at 120, of which number four were seriously injured. Two strikers and one fireman were killed today as the result of a collision between a fire engine and an electric car.

INSURED LITTLE ONES EXPIRE VERY RAPIDLY

Philadelphia Coroner Finds at Least Two Died of Arsenical Poisoning.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Public Ledger Building,
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.

Coroner Dugan announced this afternoon that the little Williams children—Annie and Josephine—whose deaths within a day of each other a month ago, have since been the subject of rigid investigation, were both poisoned by arsenic. It was learned that another Williams child, a girl named Laura, died last January and that the cause of death was given as pneumonia.

"Is it true that the parents collected $210 insurance on the life of this child Laura?" was asked of the coroner today.

"Yes, that is so. An insurance of $30 also was collected on the life of Annie and of $180 on the life of Josephine."

"How do you suppose this arsenic came to be in the bodies of Annie and Josephine?"

"It is my opinion that the poison was administered in powder form in their food. All the children ate oatmeal in large quantities."

The lives of the three Williams children now living are all insured. Two of them were in the Hannemann hospital last week, but their cases yielded to treatment and they have gone home again.

CASTRO RELIES UPON THE MONROE DOCTRINE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CARACAS, VENEZUELA, Nov. 25.—President Castro, in an interview today, said:

"The revolution received its death blow at La Victoria. A campaign has been inaugurated against Barcelona and Ciudad Bolivar by a strong and seasoned army, which assures its success. By January 1 I am confident I shall be able to officially proclaim peace.

"Venezuela entertains cordial and sympathetic friendship for the United States and desires the closest relations with the United States, which has already signally opposed the aggression of foreign powers. The government is confident that, convinced of the justice of our cause, the United States will render Venezuela assistance in her future difficulties. Well supported and well applied, the Monroe doctrine is of the greatest possible importance and value. The motto of the United States should be accepted by the Pan-American nations, which should be bound in indissoluble ties of comity and friendship. Questions with European governments can be settled amicably if they have the same desire for friendly relations. We, the Venezuelan people, united, patriotic and courageous, form a force which will tenaciously resist any attempt to infringe our sovereignty or invade our territory."

CIVILIZED POWERS SHOULD TAKE A HAND

Ambassador White Declares Treatment of Hebrews by Roumania Is Monstrous.

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—A private letter written by Ambassador White to Henry Seligman of Frankfort-on-the-Main, regarding the treatment of Hebrews in Roumania appears in the Frankfurter Zeitung today. The letter, which was not intended for present publication, is in part as follows:

"The Roumanian atrocities are simply monstrous and startle the civilized world. I have just received the Roumanian Bulletin. No document equals it in cruelty since the series of laws with which Louis XVI persecuted the Huguenots. But even these, which have hitherto been regarded as the acme of cruelty, are exceeded by those in the Bulletin. I cannot believe that right thinking Roumanians or the civilized powers can allow this condition of things to continue."

TRAIN STRUCK WAGON.

Killed Both Horses and Badly Injured Driver.

In an accident at the McClure street crossing in Dravosburg, about 11 o'clock yesterday, two horses were killed, a driver was seriously injured and a number of people who were at the crossing had narrow escapes from death.

The crossing was blocked by a passing northbound freight train and as the caboose passed, Ross Coates, the driver of the wagon, started to cross the tracks, when a southbound passenger train on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston thundered along at high speed and struck the team. The horses were tossed dead to one side of the track and the wagon and driver were dragged for 50 yards.

Driver Ross Coates was cut about the head and face and it is feared sustained internal injuries.

BUY BEFORE DARK.

Campbell's Will Be Closed This Evening.

If you want something warm to wear tomorrow—a new suit, a coat, a velvet hat or woolen underwear, and intend to trade at Campbell's, do not put off the purchase until this evening. "The People's Store" does not think it fair to give its employees a holiday and make them work so late the preceding night that they are in no condition to enjoy the resting spell to the uttermost. So Campbell's will close as usual at 6 p. m. today and remain closed until Friday morning. The Friday Bargains will be announced in The Gazette tomorrow.

WIDE OPEN MARKET IN WINDOW GLASS

Jobbers, However, Expect Soon to Conform With Columbus Agreement.

There continues a wide open market with the jobbers of the window glass trade, regardless of the compact of the manufacturers and jobbers' executive committee entered at Columbus, O., last week for the purpose of putting the price war to an end. Leading Pittsburgh jobbers declared yesterday, however, that the open market will soon be closed, and that a meeting of all the jobbers may be called at any time to enter the Columbus agreement.

The jobbers have withdrawn the very low price quotations which they were making prior to the Columbus meeting. Nominal quotations are now at 88 and 5 per cent off the jobbers' lists on less than car lots and 90 per cent off in car and larger lots. Glass is being sold at prices considerably lower, but the jobbers' meeting, which is to be held soon, is expected to fix new base discounts, which may advance the net prices under the discounts mentioned.

Under the Columbus compact, the manufacturers agree to sell to no jobbers outside of the National Window Glass Jobbers' association, except at an advance of 10 per cent over the base prices made to the associated jobbers. The manufacturers in the agreement have 94 factories operating 3,003 pots, and there are 47 outside factories operating 808 pots. Of the associated manufacturers the American Window Glass Company has 36 factories operating 1,688 pots; Federation Window Glass Company, 42 factories, 808 pots; Independent Window Glass Company, 16 factories, 507 pots.

Another feature of the Columbus agreement not hitherto mentioned is that the extreme Pacific coast territory is to be considered an open market, although the manufacturers' prices there are never to be made lower than to the associated jobbers, who are expected to enter the agreement with the manufacturers to take 450,000 boxes of the output each month and thereby control the jobbing trade.

RECONCILED TO WIFE TO KILL HER AND SELF

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

TEXARKANA, TEX., Nov. 25.—In a room at the Cosmopolitan hotel in this city, on a bed soaked in blood, Lee Weigel of this city and a young woman whom he claimed to have married last Friday at Anniston, Ala., were found with their throats and wrists cut. The woman was already cold in death. The man was conscious, though horribly mutilated and helpless from loss of blood.

At the hospital, although conscious and rational, Weigel refused to explain the affair, which appears to have been an attempted suicide and murder. A bloody razor was found by the side of the bed on which the couple were lying. They had registered at the hotel at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and had not been seen since until 2 this afternoon, when their door was forced open.

During last night a bell boy said Weigel sent out for both chloroform and morphine.

The theory of the police is that the couple quarreled and that Weigel drugged her before killing her. The peaceful expression on the woman's face would seem to bear out this theory.

Friends of Weigel, who have known him for some time, say they do not believe he was just married Friday. They think he was married to the Alabama woman three years, but quarreled and separated. Last Friday's reported wedding was really a reconciliation, real or pretended, on his part. He brought his bride direct to Texarkana and there decided to kill her.

N. P. Ramsey Captures Another.

N. P. Ramsey of Dayton, O., special agent of the Wabash railroad, in charge of the mail traffic of that system, was in Pittsburgh yesterday. Mr. Ramsey received notice yesterday that another full railway postoffice line had been ordered established by the postal department on the lines of the Wabash from Quincy, Ill., to Chicago. The service is ordered by Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger, a citizen of Rochester, Pa.

COL. OCHILTREE DIES IN VIRGINIA

Unique Character in American History Passes Away of Heart Trouble.

A GOOD STORY TELLER

Fought Indians in His Youth, Became a Colonel in the Confederate Army and Served in Congress from Texas.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HOT SPRINGS, VA., Nov. 25.—Col. Thomas Ochiltree died here today of heart trouble. He had been in a sinking condition since yesterday and it is a surprise to his physician that he lived until today. He was conscious this morning, but soon grew much worse and lost consciousness again. He died without pain. Arrangements for his funeral will be made by friends in New York.

Col. Ochiltree was known not only throughout the United States, but in every capital in Europe. He was a bon vivant and a splendid raconteur—a jolly companion.

He was a man of the world. His humor was of the breezy western type, and so remarkable were most of his stories, either about himself or others, that he became known as the "Arabian Knight."

Col. Ochiltree was born in 1840 at Nacogdoches parish, Texas. It was a stirring period, marking the close of Texas' career as an independent republic. His father, Judge William B. Ochiltree, a distinguished lawyer and personal friend of Houston and those men who carried the destiny of Texas in their hands, was desirous of bringing the boy up in a fashion to suit the quieter epoch he imagined he foresaw.

Fought Indians at Fifteen.

But young "Tom," while displaying a bright intellect, also showed the liveliest signs of life. He abruptly broke off his studies in his fifteenth year and volunteered as a private in the Texas rangers, commanded by Capt. John G. Walker, against the Apache and Comanche Indians in 1854 and 1855.

At the close of the campaign he returned to his books; but his was supremely a youth of action, and before he had attained his majority he made himself editor of the Jeffersonian, and in 1860 attended as a delegate the convention of Charleston and Baltimore.

Then ensued the civil war, during which Ochiltree served with distinction on the staffs of Gen. Thomas Green and Gen. Richard Taylor of the confederate army. He also received honorable mention while acting under special orders from Longstreet, and was rewarded by a colonelcy.

After the cessation of hostilities Col. Ochiltree accepted the situation in good faith, and both by word and pen exhorted his compatriots to "stop crying and find solace in work."

During President Grant's first administration he appointed the Texan to be United States marshal of his state. But 1876 and 1877 saw him again in his editorial phase. He conducted the Houston Daily Telegraph, and was untiring in his efforts to keep the resources of Texas before the world.

Was Commissioner in Europe.

The attention of the state government was called to him, with the result that he was sent to Europe to act as commissioner of emigration for Texas, and in that capacity he paid several visits to the continent, as well as to England.

For many years Col. Ochiltree was the "ranger" of "The Sportsman." In 1892 he represented the Associated Press at the Brussels monetary conference. When the colonel was in Texas in 1896 the legislature, on a joint resolution, adjourned that the members might meet him. Col. Ochiltree was a friend of John P. Mackay and had been associated with Mr. Mackay in business.

One of his greatest successes was when he ran on an independent ticket in 1882 and defeated his Democratic opponent for congress, one of the most popular men in Texas.

This story is characteristic of him: When he began to practice law with his father he took advantage of the old gentleman's absence in San Antonio to have an immense sign painted, which read: "Thomas P. Ochiltree and father, attorneys."

GROVER CLEVELAND TO ADDRESS NEGROES

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 25.—Former President Grover Cleveland has accepted an invitation to preside at a public meeting to be held here on December 11 in the interest of the Berean Manual Training and Industrial School for Colored People. Mr. Cleveland will make an address. Among the other speakers will be former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, Col. A. K. McClure and Booker T. Washington.

Action Was Deferred.

Allegheny common council met last night in special session to reconsider its action at the last meeting on the resolution protesting against the raising of the bridge over the Allegheny river. The resolution at the last meeting was defeated by a vote of 17 to 13. After some consideration it was held over until next meeting. An ordinance was passed granting the Patterson coal company the right to build a railroad switch across Braddock street.

CONTRACTS LET FOR EXTENSION

Awards on Little Kanawha Extension Work Made by Ramsey and Blair.

LENGTH IS 71 MILES

Clemens and Company and J. Henry Miller Will Put in This New Link for the Wabash for About $2,500,000.

President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash, and J. T. Blair, of the Little Kanawha railroads, announced yesterday the awards of contracts for the construction of the extension of the Little Kanawha from Sandy Bend, on the Little Kanawha road, to Burnsville, W. Va. The successful bidders are Clemens & Co., of Philadelphia, and J. Henry Miller, now of Baltimore, but formerly of this city, where he was well known in the telegraph business. The value of the contracts is approximately $2,500,000. The distance is 71 miles.

The announcement is made after nearly a month of consideration of the bids. No fewer than 31 contractors were after the work. The awards cover the masonry and grading. There will be nearly 4,000,000 cubic yards of excavation in this distance. There are nine tunnels, varying from 400 to 2,200 feet in length, making a total of 10,600 feet of tunnel work. The eight bridges in the distance have spans from 200 to 250 feet. The time for the completion of the contract is 16 months.

This is the first of the contracts to be let in the new Gould extension to the seaboard through West Virginia. The line included in this is a part of the link between the Little Kanawha on the west and the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh on the east. The Burnsville & Eastern has been incoporated for the remainder of the eastern extension of the Little Kanawha, which will then complete this link. The distance is 50 miles. This will furnish a through route from Parkersburg to Cumberland. From Cumberland to a point near Cherry Run, W. Va., the western terminus of the Western Maryland, another link will be built, completing the chain to Baltimore.

From Parkersburg west the line will be linked up with the Wheeling & Lake Erie, and thus with all the Gould system of 17,000 miles in the west and southwest. The Ohio river is to be bridged at Parkersburg by the Parkersburg Bridge & Terminal Railroad Company to Marietta. The contract for this bridge will be let before long. It is practically certain that the American Bridge Company will do the work. From Marietta to Zanesville, the point of junction with the Wheeling & Lake Erie, a new line will be built. This is incorporated under the name of the Zanesville, Marietta & Parkersburg, and is 68 miles long.

The active head in all this work is J. T. Blair of Greenville, one of the best-known railroad builders in the country. The chief engineer of the various lines concerned is Samuel D. Brady of Parkersburg, who has been in the city with Mr. Blair for two days in consultation with President Ramsey. The financial end of the plan is operated by the Little Kanawha syndicate, of which President Ramsey is manager. The plan is similar to that of the Wabash in entering Pittsburgh.

Throughout this work the most active co-operation of the people of the section has been granted freely. Much of the right of way has been given free. Parkersburg, realizing the benefits of being an important point on a through trunk line, is enthusiastic over its prospective growth in railroad and industrial importance.

E. D. Fulton, secretary of the Little Kanawha and the active manager of the Wabash plans in Greene county, was also in Pittsburgh in consultation with Mr. Ramsey. Mr. Fulton said last night that over 80 per cent of the right of way for the Greene county extension has been signed and upward of 100 freight contracts made for the line when in operation. Bids will be asked for the construction in time for work to start in the spring.

William M. Greene, vice president and general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern, came to Pittsburgh yesterday with President Loree of the Baltimore & Ohio. Since the annual meeting of the Southwestern last week, Mr. Loree and Mr. Greene have been traveling over the entire line.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

In Store for Those Who Doubt.

When you read that a sufferer of many years' standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvelous. The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received.

"I had a friend who had used one box of 50 cent Pyramid Pile Cure that entirely cured her. I saw the good effect on her, and thought I would try it, as I had got so I could not sit down without extreme pain and getting up was just as bad; the first box nearly cured me; I got the second box and have had no trouble since. Pyramid Pile Cure does all that it claims to do, and I never miss an opportunity to tell its merits. I speak from observation and personal benefit. Two boxes cured me over a year ago, and no return of the trouble since." Mrs. M. Mooney, 9000 Sangamon street, Chicago, Ill.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

EDDIE KENNEDY NOT FAST ENOUGH FOR MATHEWS

THE ALL-STAR ELEVEN IS SEEKING REVENGE

KENNEDY STAYS FOR TEN ROUNDS

BIG CROWD IS OUT

Matty Matthews was given the decision over Eddie Kennedy last night at Turner hall, Allegheny, after 10 rounds of as good fighting as has been seen here in many years. Though Kennedy was beaten to a standstill, he won the cheers of his friends, for there was never a time during the bout that Matthews did not have his eyes open for the punch that was likely to come his way.

That the game is popular was shown by the size of the crowd. They couldn't have put more people in the hall if they had used a hay press. Seats were at a premium long before the preliminaries were started, and many of the late comers put up $5 for $2 seats.

Before the battle opened Buck Cornelius announced that unless good order was kept the fight would be stopped, as the superintendent of police was on the stage and officers were scattered everywhere in the room. He also held out the promise that other little affairs of the sort could be pulled off in Allegheny if the lovers of the game would play fair. This little talk from the renowned Buck had the desired effect, and there was probably never a more orderly affair of the kind.

Cheers for Both Fighters.

Both men had their adherents in the hall, though Kennedy's admirers were in the majority, and when the two principals appeared they were greeted with cheers. The crowd also voiced its approval of Cornelius as referee, but the fight was so clean he had little work to do. Behind Matthews was Tommy West, who has been in many a good stiff fight of his own. Mike Leary and Walter Berger, Kennedy's, looked after by Manager Corcoran, Otto Black and Fred Broad.

The fight opened up fast from the sound of the gong, and neither man seemed inclined to waste much time sparring. Matthews held off, and stopped some seemingly good jabs and swings from the mit of Kennedy. He put in a few of his own, just to show that he is not a dead one. The first round ended with honors even, though Kennedy had landed the greater number of blows. Matthews had opened up on Kennedy's mouth in this round, and the Allegheny boy bled profusely throughout the battle. Matthews taking great pleasure in playing for the sore spot.

There was not a clean knockdown during the fight, though both men slipped down several times. Kennedy was down just as the gong sounded for the end of the fight. Matthews used very few swings, but put up a jabbing fight from start to finish. Kennedy also suffered a cut over the eye early in the fight, and this seemed to annoy him, as the blood ran down his face. But he seemed always waiting for more, and even in his last round, when Matthews had him going and he was hardly able to strike a blow, he took his medicine with a half smile, as though he rather liked it. Matthews did not show a mark.

Matthews Took It Easy.

Matthews played an easy game all the way through, and although he seemed to have his man at his mercy, he did not seem inclined to send for his right-hand shot. The fact that he is scheduled to fight again tonight at Ashtabula, where he meets a citizen of the black ward of Cleveland who goes under the name of Dixon, may have caused him to save his strength.

Altogether Kennedy showed his gameness. Matthews showed that he still has some of his old-time speed and cleverness, and the crowd was satisfied with the decision.

A feature was that the six-round preliminary was good. It was between "Tough" Brogan of Pittsburgh and Henry Brown of Allegheny. Brown got the decision by having his man practically out in the sixth round, though he had stopped a heavy bunch of punches in the meantime. Brown is clever, but not clever enough to give away weight and reach and then win. He has a pretty good punch, too, in the final round, however. Brogan got to him, and he went down and took half the count. It was practically his finish, as he was helpless and going fast under a rain of blows when the gong saved him from a complete knockout. After being carried to his corner and rubbed down, he looked fit to begin again.

READY FOR FINAL GAME.

Westminster's Eleven Wants to Break a Precedent.

NEW WILMINGTON, PA., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The members of the Westminster eleven returned from their Ohio trip yesterday well pleased with the result of the two games with Muskingum. The latter team has made a creditable record this season and on the previous Saturday had defeated the strong Marietta team.

Westminster's showing has encouraged the more sanguine supporters of the team to predict a victory over Allegheny in the closing game next Thursday. For the past four years both elevens have ended the season with honors even, each team winning the home game, but this year it is expected that the precedent will be broken. Westminster has fully recovered from the slump of two weeks ago, and is playing a steadier and stronger game than at any time during the season.

WILL PLAY IN MORNING.

Geneva College and Cottage Elevens Will Struggle for Victory.

The Geneva college football team, which claims the college championship of Western Pennsylvania since W. and J. refused to arrange for a game, will play the Cottage team Thanksgiving morning at Friendship park. Manager J. Scott Morgan of the Cottage team yesterday completed arrangements with Capt. Joe Thompson of the Geneva team to play here, and thus give the football patrons of Pittsburgh the opportunity of seeing the famous Beaver Falls eleven play. Geneva has not been defeated this season, winning from all the big teams in Western Pennsylvania.

The fact that the game will be played in the morning is a good thing for local followers of the gridiron sport, as they can take in the Cottage-Geneva game in the morning and also see the big game in the afternoon.

NAMED THE OFFICIALS.

Bill Stuart and Prof. Harman Will Preside Over Game.

At a conference between the managers of the East End A. A. and Wash.-Jeff. team, held yesterday afternoon, the officials for the Thanksgiving Day game were named. They are W. A. Stuart, better known as "Chauncey Bell," and Prof. Harman of Cornell.

Both elevens are in fine trim for this game and a warm battle is looked for. The East End eleven has been at hard practice every evening, under the direction of Joseph Heh and James Laita, and are confident of victory.

Will Meet in Annual Contest.

Tomorrow the annual Thanksgiving day association football game will be played at Steel Works park, Homestead, between the East Pittsburgh and H. L. A. C. teams. These teams have met on this holiday for four years, and since Pittsburgh has usually been successful, but this year Homestead is so much stronger that they expect to win.

Latrobe Failed to Appear.

The bowling game scheduled for last night between the Latrobe and Homestead teams of the County Bowling league, was not rolled because of the failure of the Latrobe team to put in an appearance.

Preparing for Fast Ice Sport

SCHOOL TEAMS FORM BASKETBALL LEAGUE

All the Leading Schools Including Pittsburgh Academy Will Be Represented.

The most satisfactory season on the gymnasium floor which the schools of the local district have ever experienced is promised by the preparations which are now on for an interscholastic league in basketball to be composed of five teams. The league which prevailed last season in basketball was one of the best things that ever happened for local school athletics. It was the first organization of the kind and resulted in closer relations between the schools, which was responsible for the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association, and the most successful season in track athletics ever known to the Western Pennsylvania district.

The feature of the league this season according to present plans will be the admittance of the "Big Nine" Academy to membership. This "gem" with the other preparatory schools in the league will make the most interesting season ever Pittsburgh High school, East Liberty Academy, Shadyside Academy and the Allegheny Preparatory. High school had the strongest aggregation last season and was eventually voted the honors, though on the standing of games won and lost Shadyside and High school were tied.

There was discord in the league last season over the forfeiting of Nichols of High school and Scritchfield of Shadyside. This caused the forfeiting of several games which left the standing of the league far from satisfactory.

BASKET BALL NOTES.

Newsy Items About the Boys Who Make Things Lively on the Gymnasium Floors.

It is whispered that Louis Rosser has come to the conclusion to help the D. C. & A. C. team out and will play forward. John Selble, Ernest Selble, Kallock Marthens and all the other boys are in perfect shape. Roberts has an unknown player whom he will produce shortly.

Henry Nickel is training faithfully with South Side. Roberts of D. C. & A. C. says there will be a different story to tell before the week's end. Lutz and Yeager have both promised to play for Freddie Roberts, manager of D. C. & A. C.

F. L. Roberts, manager of D. C. & A. C. team, was strongly in favor of admitting the Manchester boys in the league, and the chances are Manchester will become a member. From the very beginning Roberts has claimed Butler is weak and is not to be compared to the Manchester boys.

The South Side Turners third basketball team would like to arrange games with any 10-13 year old basketball teams. Pirate Juniors and Watson A. C. preferred. For games address Manager J. Howard Trischler, 1210 Carson street, Pittsburgh, South Side.

Any good 16-year-old basketball team desiring to play the Riverview A. C. in the Riverview gymnasium either on Thursday (Thanksgiving), or Friday evening of this week is requested to immediately call up C. D. & P. phone 182 south, or address Louis Caplan, 3605 Perrysville avenue, Allegheny.

WONDERFUL POOL WORK.

Two more amateurs went down before Pool Champion Eby yesterday at the Hotel Henry rooms. The scores were phenomenal, Eby running 15 balls every time he shot. In the afternoon he defeated Franklin Nelson 100 to 4, while in the evening Mr. Hetchings only succeeded in making one more, or 100 to 5. The champion gave an exhibition of running 15 balls with one hand, which pleased the spectators. Mr. Eby is an undefeated champion of this style of game. Score by innings:

Afternoon—								Total.
Evening—
Eby	13	14	15	15	15	13	15	—100
Hetchings	2	1	0	0	0	2	0	— 5

Tomorrow afternoon Arthur Gusman, the steward of the Press club, will try for the prize. As Mr. Gusman is quite an expert, a good game may be expected. In the evening George Dirnar will be the contester.

WILL MEET EDDIE TOY.

Denver Boxer Will Be McClelland's Opponent.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—President Haughton of the West End club arrived here this morning in company with Abe Attell and Eddie Toy, the Denver boxer, who is to go Thanksgiving evening at the West End club in a 20-round bout against Jack McClelland of Pittsburgh.

The match is a substitute for the one scheduled between Dave Sullivan and McClelland, which was called off by Sullivan because he was unwilling to take any chances against as strong an opponent until he had at least three weeks' training. McClelland has said all along that Sullivan would not meet him at present, after the experience he once had at the hands of the Pittsburgh man, and the sequence justified his opinion. Toy is said to be exceedingly clever. He fought a fast bout with Jimmy Britt, the man who meets Frank Erne tomorrow night at San Francisco.

WILL FIGHT ALONE.

American Association Will Not Aid New Southern League.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Nov. 25.—George Tebeau, president of the Louisville baseball club, returned from Chicago and Cincinnati tonight. Regarding the relation of the American association to the Southern league, Mr. Tebeau said:

"The American association entered into no agreement whatever with the new Southern league. All of our members are anxious to see the fight in the south settled, and to that end Mr. Hickey offered his services. He stands ready to use his good offices. That is as far as we have gone or will go."

Mr. Tebeau does not think there will be any change in the American association circuit the coming season.

PLAYERS READY FOR FINAL GAME

WILL BE HOT FIGHT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MT. POCONO, PA., Nov. 25.—Since coming here the red and blue football team has been allowed many liberties in the choice of eatables, but starting today the bill of fare was more restricted and the delicacies and sweet stuffs were prohibited. All the men have gained four or five pounds in weight and are all nearly back to their weights again.

The hunting and fishing trips, together with the open air games in which the men indulge are quickly getting them into form, and fine again. None of the squad have complaints of any kind but all enter the practice with vim and dash.

The practice this afternoon was about the same as usual; a half hour was spent in falling on the ball and assisting one another to quickly regain their feet. Then the usual signal practice and instruction in meeting the Cornell offense was given the men, after which a short run was taken.

The practice tomorrow will be held in the forenoon as the team leaves for Philadelphia at 1:40. The coaches carefully reviewed all the new formations the Cornell offense and defense were thoroughly explained, and hints given the quarterbacks and captain in the manner in which to run the team.

Cornell's Final Practice.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The Cornell football eleven celebrated its last practice on Percy Field today in unique fashion. The big sawdust mummy which has been used as frequently as the scrub during Cornell football aspirants the art of tackling was burned at the stake. The dummy was dressed in a red and blue uniform, and wore a sweater which was adorned with a big head. Then all of the candidates wildly danced around the burning image for 20 minutes.

Brewster had on his suit but did not run the team. James being assigned the place. Shepard was out half the week, and thought that it would not be best to permit him to take any part in the work whatever, so Coffin played at fullback and Kittle went in at half back.

The eleven, including some 25 players and substitutes, cos ties, trainer and half a dozen rubbers left for Philadelphia on the Lehigh Valley tonight, and will be quartered at the Hotel Normandie. Tomorrow there will be practice on Franklin Field.

FINE NEW RACE TRACK.

New York to Have the Best and Most Complete One in the Country.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The West Chester Racing association announced today that it had secured a site for a new race track to take the place of the Morris park track, which will pass out of existence on January 1, 1904, on the expiration of the lease.

The new track, which is to be called Belmont Park, is situated near the station of Queens, L. I., just outside the limits of Greater New York. The property covers 666 acres, on the cost and equipment of which it is intended to expend $1,500,000, to make the new course the finest and best appointed in the country. It is proposed to lay out a straight chute of 7 furlongs a circular track of 1½ miles and a circular training track of the same length, to be used in connection with the main track when necessary.

The plans have the full approval of the state commission and the board of stewards of the Jockey club.

WILL COMPLETE SCHEDULE.

Pittsburgh High School Team to Play One More Game.

Though the regular High school football team was variously reported to have disbanded after the bad defeat by Kiskiminetas, the final game of the season will be played with the Greensburg High school team on Thursday at Greensburg. Quite a number of the team do not want to play and the team may be patched up one. The stand taken by the High school management of fulfilling the school schedule is entirely the proper one and should be supported by the students.

The prospective High School team for the season was as follows: High School 22, Melvin A. C. 0; High School 11, Trinity hall 5; High School 47, South Side High School 0; High School 5, L. L. L. A. 0; High School 41, Allegheny Preps 5; High School 5, Elders Ridge 0; High School 11, Flavel A. C. 0; High School 64, Elders Ridge 0; High School 0, Shadyside 5; High School 5, Kiski 23; High School 0, E. L. A. 5; total High School, 151; to opponents, 43.

SELLING THE TROTTERS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Madison Square garden held an assemblage of representative horsemen today such as one seldom sees except at a trotting meeting in the grand circuit, the second day of the Fasig-Tipton sale attracting a larger crowd than the opening.

Consignments from John Shultz, Nathan Straus, H. O. Havemeyer, W. E. Dickerman and Senator Bailey of Texas kept auctioneers busy from 10 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night. Mr. Shultz sold nearly 100 head of young things and brood mares, among them being 25 trotters and pacers having records of 2:20 or better.

Big Offer for McChesney.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—Charles Ellison has offered Durnell and Herz $20,000 for McChesney, the crack western colt. The offer was refused, the owners holding him at $50,000.

PITTSBURGH STARS ANXIOUS TO GET EVEN

Richardson's Players Are Prepared for Hard Battle. Gammons Will Play.

The Philadelphia Athletics will arrive in Pittsburgh this evening for their game tomorrow afternoon with the Pittsburgh Stars at Colosseum park. This is the team that defeated the Pittsburghers 11 to 10 in Philadelphia some weeks ago, and it will be the chief aim of Capt. Richardson to reverse matters when the teams meet again tomorrow afternoon.

Manager Berry said yesterday that the officials would not be selected until this evening, or maybe not until the morning of the game. He will have competent men for referee and umpire, as he does not want to run up against the snag we did in Philadelphia in having the ball taken from us within 10 yards of our opponents' goal, after having carried it 80 yards against a howling wind," said Manager Berry.

The Pittsburgh team will be strengthened in the backfield by the addition of John A. Gammons, who has in his time thrilled local crowds by his dashing runs for touchdowns. Gammons would have been with Pittsburgh this season but for his engagement as coach at Brown university. The season is over at Brown, and Gammons comes to Pittsburgh at the request of his side partner, Richardson. It will probably be one of the hardest fought games in the league series, and victory means much to Capt. Richardson.

The Pittsburgh players were put through some lively paces on a muddy field yesterday afternoon. Shirley Ellis was not in line, as he had not recovered from injuries received in the game at Philadelphia on Saturday. He will be all right tomorrow, however. Sherlock was at quarterback and Coach Richardson spent the entire time in coaching. The players will be given only light practice this afternoon. Last night they were guests at a dance given by Mr. Brown, who opened his new hotel at Greensburg.

AMONG THE AMATEURS.

Capt. Wehrstadt of the Bellevue Tigers requests the players to report for practice Wednesday evening at 7:30 sharp.

The Crafton Juniors desire a game for tomorrow afternoon with some good 90-pound team. Call up I. E. Kemp, 'phone 21, Carnegie building.

The Westlake third team will play the Monessen team of the West End on Thanksgiving morning on the Denny grounds. Game starts at 9 a. m. sharp.

The Gruver Reserves of Carnegie will play the Whittmer A. C. team tomorrow on the latter's grounds. The players will report for practice this evening.

It is feared that Bitner, the crack center for Riverside A. C., who was injured in last Saturday's game with Twin City, will be unable to play again this season.

The Franklin team is prepared for its game tomorrow afternoon at Pitcairn. The players have had continuous practice and will undoubtedly give the Pitcairns a hard tussle for victory.

All of the North End A. C. players are in good condition and they promise to keep the Sycamores busy when they meet them Thanksgiving afternoon for the 90-pound championship.

One of the greatest games that will be played at Swissvale this season will be seen on Thanksgiving Day at 10 o'clock, when the Braddock All-Stars and the champion Swissvale A. C. clash.

Primrose players will report for light signal practice tonight at 7:30. They will also report at Union station Thanksgiving morning at 7:30 to take the train for Indiana, where they play the strong Normal team in the afternoon.

Manchester A. C. of Allegheny will go to Kittanning on Thanksgiving to play the strong Kittanning football team. Manchester has been hard at work and a good game is expected. Manchester will report for practice this evening.

The Riverside A. C. meets the Lawrenceville Indians on Riverside's grounds on Thanksgiving morning and Pulaski A. C. in the afternoon. Coach Hagerty requests all Riverside players to report for practice this evening at 7 o'clock sharp.

Valley A. C. is without a game for Thanksgiving on account of Westlake Reserves cancelling a short notice. Any team desiring a game address L. W. Garratt, box 18, McKees Rocks, Pa., or call up P. & L. E. R. R. 62, ring 3. Full expenses.

The National Hockey club is out for the 10 or 11 year old championship. They will give all aspirants a hard tussel. They would like their games for Saturday afternoons. Will play on ice only. For further information address S. H. Allen, 1514 Garfield avenue, Allegheny.

The Pittsburgh Deaf Mutes A. C. will play two games this week—one at Warren, O., Thanksgiving and the other with South Side A. C. at Pittsburgh college park, Bluff street, Saturday, November 29. The mutes and South Side boys are equally confident that they will win.

The Wilmerding association of football has signed two crack players. They are Dave and Barney Murray of the Swissvale Sempahoras. They are two good players, and have played the star games for Swissvale right along. They will be in the Wilmerding's line-up against Grattztown on Saturday.

The Allegheny Athletic association football team will journey to Butler, Thanksgiving Day and play the crack Butler team, McDonald, which was scheduled to play Three A. having canceled. All Three A. players are requested to report at the Pittsburgh & Western station, Allegheny, at 10 o'clock sharp Thursday morning.

Orient A. C. wants a game with some 50-pound team for Thanksgiving at 1 o'clock, and one for Saturday, November 29. Full expenses to winter—half to loser; good treatment and fine level enclosed grounds. Address C. A. Bigley, No. 1 Randolph street, Allegheny, Pa., or call at room 411, Union station, Pittsburgh.

The Flavels will line up against the Madison Tigers on Thanksgiving morning and a good game is expected. The manager of the Flavels tried to arrange games with the Fequots, Sycamores and Tigers of Allegheny, but they refuse to play even on their own terms. All three teams are out for the 90 pound championship, but they will have to defeat Flavel before they have a clear claim to the title.

The Army A. C. will do battle at Aspinwall and their backers will lose quite a sum of money if they do not pull out ahead. The Army A. C. would like to hear from the Turtle Creek Reserves about a game for the 6th of December, and they would like to hear from Millvale high school in regard to a post season game for $25. Address Manager Charles Moorhead, No. 161 Forty-first street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARD FOR TALENT TO PICK WINNERS

TRACK A SEA OF MUD

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The steady rain of last night and today made the track at Bennings a sea of mud. Only the regulars made the journey to witness the card. Despite the large number of scratches and the comparatively small fields, the talent found it hard to pick winners.

Only two actual favorites, Red Damsel and Benckart, secured firsts. Circus, the equal choice favorite in the last race, won. Jockey J. STRONG PRACTICE WORK.

Wash.-Jeff. Prepares for East End Eleven.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The Washington and Jefferson football team had the first practice of the week at College park this afternoon, when the full 'varsity squad was on the field. There was no practice yesterday on account of the weather and today the grounds was still soft. Then men all seemed to be in first-class shape and their rest of a few days has done them lots of good. The work of the 'varsity was all that could be edsired and the playing against the strong scrub team astonished the students and football fans who were on the field.

The players seem to have gotten new life since the last two victories, when it was demonstrated that they could still play ball, and the best exhibition of the season is looked for when they line up against the Pittsburgh team on Thursday afternoon.

Flournoy Goes to Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 25.—John Flournoy, outfielder for the Louisville American association team last year, has signed a contract to play with Toledo next year.

TO ROAST COFFEE.

Manager Manning of the Nicaragua Company Explains Plans Interesting to Pittsburgh.

Isaac A. Manning, United States consular agent at Matagalpa, Nicaragua, and manager there for the United States Coffee Company, is in Pittsburgh. He said last night that the company intends to establish here a coffee roasting plant for its entire crop of coffee. "In the course of two or three years," he said, "our trees will be in full bearing and will produce 1,000,000 pounds of coffee, which we expect to roast in a plant in Pittsburgh. We have secured no site for this, but the plan is to make the plant serve for our entire crop, and as much as we can buy from producers near us. Last year our crop was 250,000 pounds.

"We have no purpose to come here to wage trade war against the Arbuckles or the Havemeyer interests. Our coffee is of such a grade as will go to a different trade than theirs. Our company is chartered under the laws of Maine, and its authorized capital is $2,000,000. Not all is issued, and we expect a Pittsburgh contingent to join us. The company is a consolidation of the Jumalque, Jelgueros, Esmeralda and Indiana coffee companies, all having headquarters in Richmond, Ind., but no coffee roasting plant there, as reported. Clem A. Gaar of Gaar, Scott & Co., agricultural implement manufacturers, is president; C. W. Ferguson of Richmond, Ind., treasurer, and J. O. Dye of Springfield, O., vice president.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

The friends of City Assessor Thomas Mullen are more hopeful of his recovery. At Mercy hospital last night he was reported to be slightly improved. There was a change for the better about noon.

While he is a very sick man, there is a chance that he will fully recover his health.

QUARANTINE POLICE IN A PITCHED BATTLE

Negroes from Wabash Camps Exchange Many Shots With Officers in Wesley Street.

Armed with revolvers and knives, six colored men from the contractors' camps along the Wabash railroad, attacked officers who attempted to quarantine a house in Wesley street, early yesterday morning. The colored men fired 12 shots at the officers and the fusillade was returned, but the men effected their escape without injury. Officer John Benning was cut across the hand with a knife in a struggle with two of the men.

A dance was in progress at No. 4 Wesley street, when the officers arrived, attended by about 40 persons. Among these were a dozen or more colored men employed along the Wabash railroad. When the quarantine officers made the purpose of their visit known, six of these men walked to the front of the house and forced their way past the three officers, who drew their revolvers to check the men in their flight. To their utter surprise, the negroes stopped running, and drawing their weapons, held their pursuers at bay. The firing kept up for several minutes and the negroes escaped. Seventy-five persons were quarantined in this street. At the present time there are 156 patients at the Municipal hospital and 75 houses in quarantine throughout the city.

ALLEGHENY SCHOOLS.

Features of Annual Reports—Kindergarten and Training Schools Growing in Favor.

The 48th annual report of the board of controllers and the 29th annual report of the superintendent of public schools of Allegheny for the school year ended June 1, 1902, have been published.

The report of David B. Oliver, president of the board of controllers, shows that the average monthly enrollment of the day schools for the year was 16,011, a gain over the preceding year of 286, and that the average daily attendance was 14,314, an increase of 108. The number of teachers employed in the day schools was 407, an increase of 21. The amount paid the teachers of the day schools was $282,982 63, an increase of $30,608 38.

The report shows a loss of 105 in the average monthly enrollment of the evening schools and 6 in the number of teachers employed. The report also shows an increase in the cost per pupil in average attendance at the day schools and 40 cents in the evening schools.

The report of Supt. John Morrow shows that the kindergarten and industrial schools are growing in favor. "Manual training," Supt. Morrow says, "has taken a decided stand in the education of today and exhibitions of the work of the pupils have stirred the interest of all classes."

During the year eight suits were entered under the compulsory law and won. Five boys were sent to Morganza, four fewer than the preceding year. The amended compulsory education law is commended.

Rheumatism of 33 years' standing Cured

For 33 years I suffered from rheumatism until I became so crippled that I could hardly feed myself. Seven physicians had tried their skill in vain. My last doctors told me that it was useless for me to take more medicines, claiming there was no cure for me. My family also discouraged me from taking more medicines, but when my church paper endorsed Gloria Tonic, I resorted to that and the systematic use of this excellent specific completely cured me. G. Jacob Sexauer, Fountain City, Wis.

PIONEERS' BONES ARE DISTURBED

TWO STORIES ABOUT IT

Contractor McAfee Says Skeletons Will Be Reinterred—The Health Board Not Notified—Al Young Unwinds a Romance.

Just as it was excited a few years ago over the removal of the bones from the Indian mound, so McKees Rocks is again worked up over the removal of bones from the old burying ground on the top of the bluff that gives the borough its name. Contractor Frank McAfee is stripping the top of the hill to lay bare the rock that, he is quarrying, and his workmen are driving among a lot of graves.

Acting Chief of Police Thomas Grogan went up on the hill on Supnday and yesterday and saw enough to convince him that the remains of early settlers of McKees Rocks were being treated with disrespect. Some of the graves had been partly dug away, so that one could reach his hand in and pull out bones. Workmen were seen digging into the ground, their picks occasionally chipping a piece of rotten wood from a coffin. Chief Grogan thinks the contractor has no right to dig out the skeletons, as there are laws requiring the observance of decency in handling graves.

Remains Will be Cared For.

Contractor McAfee puts a different face on the matter. He says that William John Kennedy, formerly of McKees Rocks, but now living out west, is having the bodies of his relatives, who were also Mr. McAfee's relatives, moved from the old burying ground to another cemetery. Farther back are other graves, and when the contractor's men reach them David MacGonigle will have the bodies moved. Mr. McAfee says that one of the graves, old settlers' maintain, is that of a negro who died of smallpox 30 years ago, and the residents fear that the pestilence will spread if the body is disinterred carelessly.

Dr. W. M. Campbell, a member of the McKees Rocks board of health, said yesterday that the matter ought to be investigated. He did not believe that any bodies were being moved to other cemeteries, for, he remarked, no other cemetery would accept the remains, unless a permit for removal from the original grave were produced. "The board of health has issued no permits for such a purpose," said Dr. Campbell, "so that if any bodies are being removed the act is unlawful. I will investigate the charge."

Al Young's Indian Legend.

Al Young, the well-known McKees Rocks hotelkeeper, is well informed on the Indian lore of McKees Rocks, and consented to tell a reminiscence that occurred to him when he heard of the barring of the bones of the early settlers. Mr. Young told of an Indian chief, whose grave is on the hill, according to the legend. The chief's name is not known to history, but Mr. Young's paternal ancestor was well acquainted with the tradition. This is the poetic tale:

This Indian had his wigwam on top of the bluff. The rear of the wigwam was toward the river, for the Indian hated water, and did not wish to see it. In fact, his name arose from his dislike of the beautiful river, for he was called by his tribesmen Kostomongo, which means in English Young-man-who-hates-the-sight - of - the-river-because-it-reminds-him-that-he-needs a bath. Kostomongo was a magnificent specimen of manhood, seven feet tall, weighing 273½ pounds, without an ounce of superfluous flesh. When a boy he had predicted that he would be a chief, and because his stonefaces laughed at him he swore that he would never take a bath until he was elected head of the tribe.

She Insisted on a Bath.

For years he kept his word religiously. He was only 14 years old then, and when, at the age of 30, he courted the fair Manitocora, the maiden always sought the windward side of him, for the breeze that blew past Kostomongo was invariably strong. Courting was difficult, for on top of the hill the wind came from different directions, and Manticora, who had no handkerchief, was kept busy moving about. As Kostomongo's ardor increased Manticora's pretty nose was constantly offended, and finally she told Kostomongo flatly that he must take a bath.

Everybody knows how the Indian of those days prized his word. Kostomongo had sworn a solemn oath, and he was not yet a chief. He was torn by the struggle between love and duty, but love triumphed, and Kostomongo, commending his resolve to the Great Spirit, one night rushed from his wigwam and plunged from the top of the rocks into the Ohio. He dived headforemost, swam all the way up to what is now known as Brunot's Island, remained there three days and spent the time scrubbing himself. Then he swam back home and in his wigwam donned a new breech clout and blanket.

Manticora was taking the air when Kotomogo emerged from his tepee. The wind was blowing a half-gale, and as Kostomongo approached her, Manticora's nose, by dint of long practice, assumed a sniffing posture. What was that? the maiden asked herself. The wind was blowing in only one sense; Kostomongo had bathed. With a cry of joy Manticora flung herself into Kostomongo's arms, and they were married next day. The following year the warrior was elected chief, but his name stuck to him until his death.

SCHOOL FUND PROFITS.

Indiana Secures Judgment Against Vandalia Railroad.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 25.—By a decision handed down in the supreme court today the Indiana school fund will profit $685,424 at the expense of the Vandalia railroad. The judgment against the road is for $915,000, but of this 25 per cent goes to attorneys who have handled the state's case.

The Vandalia railroad was granted a charter in 1847, the road agreeing to pay the state for the benefit of the school fund, profits in excess of a percentage named. It was to secure this surplus that suit was started by the state.

Stabbing Resulted Fatally.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—Hugh O'Brien, who was stabbed at the St. Charles hotel yesterday morning by Rufus Burgess, died from the effects of his wounds today in the hospital. The charge of murder has been placed against Burgess. The men had been drinking together and Burgess claims that O'Brien threatened to kill him, and that he acted in self-defense.

DOWNWARD TENDENCY TO EASTERN STOCKS

Prices Averaged Lower and Closed Near the Lowest. Local Market Also Dull at Moderate Declines.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The tendency of the eastern stock market yesterday was downward, and the close was at or near the lowest prices. London quotations were lower and foreigners were sellers, although their operations were not so large as on several recent days. At the opening interest centered in Colorado Fuel & Iron and the stocks with which are affiliated the names of the factions contending for control of the property. Colorado Fuel advanced from 85½ to 91, the highest price reached on this movement, reacting to 88 at the close. It was inferred that the buying was by the competing factions, and that it foreshadowed more litigation over the annual election, for the reason that the stock transfer books are closed and under ordinary conditions the stock purchased yesterday would not carry with it the power to vote at the coming meeting. However, it was suggested that actual owners of stock might have a better standing before the courts than owners of proxies received from persons in whose names the certificates had been issued, but who had disposed of the same. After the flurry in the stock the rest of the list received more attention, particular interest being manifested in the Gould properties. Manhattan opened at 158, declined rather sharply, rallied to 159⅝ on the announcement that the system had been leased to the Inter-Borough Company on a 7 per cent guarantee, and later reacted about a point. Missouri Pacific broke 2 points to 106¼, and Wabash common broke to 28, the lowest quoted for a long time. Western Union declined to 88, and the selling of the stock was credited to one of the interests competing with Mr. Gould. Union Pacific declined to 90¾, while the marketing of two 5,000-share blocks of Union Pacific preferred, causing a break to 90¾, attracted considerable attention. St. Paul declined from 177⅜ to 174¼, and was the only prominent stock to display any rallying power at the close. Reading opened strong on the idea of the speedy settlement of the differences between the miners and the operators, but broke to 69⅝ in the late dealings. Baltimore & Ohio also declined 2 per cent, and Pennsylvania 1½ per cent. Industrial stocks were rather inactive, but were heavy in tone, closing near the lowest. On the whole it was an extremely unsatisfactory market, the rapid fluctuations in Colorado Fuel and Manhattan and the selling of the investment preferred shares of the railways causing an unsettled feeling.

Call money rates ruled at 4@5 per cent during the greater part of the day, but late in the session, when stock values were declining, there was an active demand for loans and the rate advanced to 5% per cent. Sterling exchange was firm, and the fact that gold bars and American eagles advanced in the London market suggested that gold exports might not be much longer averted. Foreign discounts were also firmer, and there was some talk of the probability of the Bank of England raising its minimum rate of discount tomorrow. English consols were fractionally lower, due to the firmer money market and also to the impending Transvaal loan. The New York banks again lost to the sub-treasury, the results of these operations since last Friday being a net loss to the banks of about $1,500,000. Chicago reported that the demand for currency from the west had about ceased, but that it was not likely the return flow would begin in any considerable volume before the middle of next month. The tone of private advices from Wall street was less confident of an easier money market next month, and the feeling now prevails that no decided relief will be experienced until after the turn of the year. Tomorrow financial operations will be suspended for the Thanksgiving festival, and on Monday congress will meet. It is, therefore, probable that stock trading will become less active, and it will not be surprising if the dullness brings gradually declining values for the remainder of the week.

There was a moderate increase in trading on the local board yesterday, but it was at the expense of values. Nearly every active stock on the list closed at net declines. The buying power is still restricted by the condition of the money market, which, while possibly less stringent than it was two weeks ago, is still in a condition that does not warrant commission brokers encouraging any increase in margin trading. Nearly everybody is now looking forward to a period of dullness, which may extend into the new year, but nearly everybody appears confident that with a return of easier money, which should not be delayed beyond the middle of January, higher prices for securities will prevail.

The most active stock yesterday was Window Glass, which, after opening firm and unchanged at 55½, gradually eased off to 54⅝ at the close, a decline of ⅝ for the day. The troubles in the trade appear to have been finally settled, and the outlook now favors larger profits in the business, but with the buying power restricted there is little basis for expectations of a rise in the stock. The steel stocks were dull and rather heavy. United States Steel common declined to 36½ and small lots of the preferred sold at 84@84⅝, a decline in both instances of ½. Crucible Steel common also sold off ½ to 19¼, and was offered at that price at the close. The preferred stock was dull and nominally unchanged at 84⅞@85. There was very little doing in the coal stocks, and prices remained steady. Fire Proofing stocks were a fraction lower, the common declining to 28¼ and the preferred to 57⅜. Westinghouse Air Brake sold at 175, but was later offered at 174½, and closed at 173 bid. Westinghouse Electric sold at 102, declined to 100½ and rallied to 101, closing at 100⅝ bid. A block of 500 shares of Allegheny Valley railway preferred changed hands at 30, a decline of 3 points from the last previous sale some time ago.

American Trust was the most active of its group, 175 shares changing hands at prices ranging from 146 to 144, and the stock closing at 142 bid, 144 asked. Colonial Trust was unchanged, selling at 602. A small lot of Dollar Savings Fund & Trust sold at 280, a decline of 10 points from the last previous sale. A Wall street house wired after the close of the market: "There seems to be something seriously wrong in the underlying conditions which we are unable to discern. A prominent financier said among other things today, that he had absolute knowledge of the fact that it was absolutely impossible to interest capitalists in new ventures, no matter how good the investment was, and that the larger interests are husbanding their money like misers. This in a way accounts for the hardening tendency of time money."

The pipe line companies yesterday advanced prices 3 cents a barrel on high grade credit balances, making the price of Pennsylvania oil $1 42. In speaking of field conditions a producer said: "It is seldom that conditions were so bullish. The production of Pennsylvania oil is about 75,000 barrels a day below consumption, and the production of Ohio oil about 12,000 barrels short. Heretofore, when there was a falling off in one there was usually an increase in the other, but at the present time consumption is drawing upon the moderate surplus stocks in both fields."

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Coffee futures opened steady with prices 5@10 points lower, being unfavorably affected by weakness abroad, local liquidation and lack of speculation. Europe sold here today and bulls liquidated near months, switching over to later positions. The business of this character consisted of a large proportion of the total sales. The market at the close was steady, net 10 to 15 points lower, with sales of 80,750 bags, including December at 4.50@4.60; February at 4.75c; March at 4.90c; April at 4.85c; May at 4.95@5c; July at 5.20c; August at 5.35c; September at 5.55@5.40c; October at 5.40@5.45c.

THOMAS J. KEENAN BUYS PROPERTY IN THIRD AVE.

Big Residence Deal in East End---Allegheny Brokers Say That Raising Sixth Street Bridge Will Send Realty Values Down.

Thomas J. Keenan has bought the Gallagher property in Third avenue, opposite the Times building for $20,000. Title to the property was obtained from Mrs. M. Gallagher of Denver, Col., the deal having been handled by the Real Estate Trust Company. The lot has a frontage of 15 feet, with a depth of 80 feet, making the rate of sale $1,333 a front foot. A two-story brick building is the only improvement. In examining the title to the property a peculiar coincidence was discovered by which it appeared that either this property or the one adjoining it was literally without a title. The description for one lot read "extending toward Smithfield street" and for the other "extending toward Wood street," and the fact that the deeds did not correspond with the properties had gone unnoticed so long that the owner who had "squatted" supposed he had a clear title. By a decision of the court the mistake was rectified, and Mr. Keenan now has a guaranteed title to his lot, which was secured for an investment.

It was currently reported yesterday that a deal was consummated for the purchase of the former residence of C. Shen, at the northeast corner of Fayette and Fulton streets, Allegheny. The property was bought several months ago by John M. Montgomery from Harry McDonald, who in turn secured it from Mr. Shen. The present sale was said to have been for $24,000 but the broker who is handling the transaction said last night that no articles of sale have as yet been signed. The lot measures 118x128 feet, and has erected on it a 14-room brick house.

Big House Transaction.

The 12 houses built by C. S. Dumbleton at the northwest corner of Atlantic and Millvale avenues are reported to have changed hands yesterday for a consideration of $56,000, or $7,500 each. The houses are three-story brick, two dwellings standing on lots 30x120 feet each. They were bought last winter by T. A. Watkins of the Prudential Trust Company. The reputed buyer in the present deal is a Connellsville party who tenders in part payment a farm of 150 acres in Fayette county.

A $10,000 brick house is to be erected by Harry Mohler on the north side of Chislett street, near Avondale street, Nineteenth ward. Mr. Mohler bought the site, which measures 100x120 feet, a few days ago for $8,000, or $80 a front foot, a new value for vacant frontage in this part of Chislett street.

An auction sale of the Center avenue police station property, near Roberts street, and engine house No. 30, in Center avenue between Kirkpatrick and Erin streets, yesterday, resulted in the former being knocked down to Attorney J. H. Wise and the latter to Albert Gratch and Louis Menzer, who take the engine house jointly. The highest bid for the police station was $5,250 and for the engine house $6,200. The police station measures 20x92 feet and the engine house 40x76 feet. Both properties were knocked down at considerably less than it was thought they would bring, and it is not unlikely that Recorder Brown and Director Leslie will revoke the sales on this account.

Allegheny Brokers Are Dubious.

The proposed elevation of the Sixth street bridge is causing no little uneasiness among Allegheny brokers, in the opinion of the most experienced brokers in Federal street the contemplated improvement is almost certain to have a very bad effect on values in the lower part of the street. The viaduct which it is said would be necessary to reach the bridge when elevated, would make a "dip" alongside which properties would be nearly worthless for business purposes. It is also feared that, although Federal and Sixth streets form the natural connecting link between the lower portions of the two cities, traffic could be easily turned aside and within a year or two another route could be found which would leave Federal street without its long lines of shoppers. During the past few months there has been a noticeable increase in the inquiries for business properties between the Ft. Wayne tracks and the river and at the prices last paid, from $1,000 to $1,250 a front foot, Federal street frontage in this locality is considered an attractive investment, regardless of the changes now being made by the railroad. One of the oldest brokers in Allegheny said yesterday: "Several deals which have been pending for property in this neighborhood are now hung up indefinitely because the buyers are afraid to take a chance on the decision of the government authorities in regard to the bridge elevation. If the bridge goes up and a long viaduct is strung out along Federal street, values will go down and it will be hard to interest investors in properties near the river until the matter is decided definitely."

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—There is a quieter tone in the local wool market this week. Dealers are busy on the deliveries of the wool previously sold, and while there is not quite so much new business in sight, the market is by no means quiet, there is a great deal of inquiry from manufacturers and a good deal of wool in going into consumption. Prices are very firm and the tendency is toward higher prices. Territory wools have been fairly active during the week and prices are strongest, though perhaps not quotably higher; fine staple territories, 58@60c; strictly fine, 59@59c; fine and fine medium, 56@58c; medium, 46@47c. While Texas wools are rather quiet, the market continues very firm at unchanged prices; fall, cleaned basis, 48@48c; 12 months, 56@60c; six to eight months, spring, 55@56c. California wools continue in active demand at firm prices; northern counties, cleaned basis, 62@53c; middle counties, 48@50c; southern counties, 45@47c; six to eight months, 1@14c less. There is a very strong undertone to fine fleece wools, with sales being made at full outside quotations; Ohio and Pennsylvania XX and above, 30@31c; X, 27@28c; Michigan X, 25½@26½c. The position of delaine wools is very strong, one sale having been made at the extreme prices quoted. Ohio and Pennsylvania washed delaine, 32@33c; Michigan, 30@31c; No. 1, 29@30c. Fine unwashed delaine, 26@27c. There is little doing in Australian wools this market, though at prices considerably lower than the wools could be duplicated for; combing, choice, scoured basis, 75@80c; good, 70@ 76c; average, 72@74c.

London Wool Auction.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The sixth of the 1902 wool auction sales opened today. The attendance was larger. Competition was active and prices were firm. Fine crossbreds were 10 per cent; medium grades, 10 per cent, and coarse grades, 20 per cent above the September sales. The offerings numbered 9,840 bales. Merinos were in good demand at 5 per cent advance. Compelling one-half of the offerings were in spirited competition for home and continental consumption. Cape of Good Hope and Natal wool was in fair supply and it sold briskly at 5 per cent advance. American buyers secured a few lots of Cape of Good Hope and Natal. Following are the sales in detail: New South Wales, 1,500 bales; scoured 7½@1s 2½d; greasy, 3½d@7s 1d. Queensland, 100 bales; greasy, 6½d@1s. Victoria, 900 bales; scoured, 10½d@1s 5½d; greasy, 4½d@1s 1½d. South Australia, 300 bales; scoured, 10½d@1s 2½d; greasy, 7½d@8d. West Australia, 1,200 bales; greasy, 6½d@10d. New Zealand, 4,800 bales; scoured, 5½d@1s 1½d; greasy, 4d@1s ½d. Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 800 bales; scoured, 8½d@1s 3d; greasy, 3½d@10d. Punta Arenas, 100 bales; greasy, 5½d@7¾d.

Dried Fruits.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The market for evaporated apples, reflecting the continuance of full offerings, remains easy on the lower grades, while prime stock shows a tendency to relatively firmer tone. Common are quoted at 5@ 5¼c, prime at 5¾@6c, choice at 6@6½c, and fancy at 7@7½c. Spot prunes of the large sizes continue firm, with a good deal of inquiry from manufacturers and a good deal of wool in going into consumption. Prices are very firm and the tendency is toward higher prices. Territory wools have been fairly active during the week and prices are strongest, though perhaps not quotably higher; fine staple territories, 58@60c; strictly fine, 59@59c; fine and fine medium, 56@58c; medium, 46@ 47c. While Texas wools are rather quiet, the market continues very firm at unchanged prices; fall, cleaned basis, 48@48c; 12 months, 56@60c; six to eight months, spring, 55@56c. California wools continue in active demand at firm prices; northern counties, cleaned basis, 62@53c; middle counties, 48@50c; southern counties, 45@47c; six to eight months, 1@14c less. London Wool Auction.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The sixth of the 1902 wool auction sales opened today. The attendance was larger. Competition was active and prices were firm. Fine crossbreds were 10 per cent; medium grades, 10 per cent, and coarse grades, 20 per cent above the September sales. The offerings numbered 9,840 bales. Merinos were in good demand at 5 per cent advance. Compelling one-half of the offerings were in spirited competition for home and continental consumption. Cape of Good Hope and Natal wool was in fair supply and it sold briskly at 5 per cent advance. American buyers secured a few lots of Cape of Good Hope and Natal. Following are the sales in detail: New South Wales, 1,500 bales; scoured 7½@1s 2½d; greasy, 3½d@7s 1d. Queensland, 100 bales; greasy, 6½d@1s. Victoria, 900 bales; scoured, 10½d@1s 5½d; greasy, 4½d@1s 1½d. South Australia, 300 bales; scoured, 10½d@1s 2½d; greasy, 7½d@ 8d. West Australia, 1,200 bales; greasy, 6½d@ 10d. New Zealand, 4,800 bales; scoured, 5½d@ 1s 1½d; greasy, 4d@1s ½d. Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 800 bales; scoured, 8½d@1s 3d; greasy, 3½d@10d. Punta Arenas, 100 bales; greasy, 5½d@7¾d.

Dried Fruits.

NEW YORK, No. 25.—The market for evaporated apples, reflecting the continuance of full offerings, remains easy on the lower grades, while prime stock shows a tendency to relatively firmer tone. Common are quoted at 5@ 5¼c, prime at 5¾@6c, choice at 6@6½c, and fancy at 7@7½c. Spot prunes of the large sizes continue firm, with a good deal of inquiry from manufacturers and a good deal of wool in going into consumption. Prices are very firm and the tendency is toward higher prices. Territory wools have been fairly active during the week and prices are strongest, though perhaps not quotably higher; fine staple territories, 58@60c; strictly fine, 59@59c; fine and fine medium, 56@58c; medium, 46@ 47c. While Texas wools are rather quiet, the market continues very firm at unchanged prices; fall, cleaned basis, 48@48c; 12 months, 56@60c; six to eight months, spring, 55@56c. California wools continue in active demand at firm prices; northern counties, cleaned basis, 62@53c; middle counties, 48@50c; southern counties, 45@47c; six to eight months, 1@14c less. There is a very strong undertone to fine fleece wools, with sales being made at full outside quotations; Ohio and Pennsylvania XX and above, 30@31c; X, 27@28c; Michigan X, 25½@26½c. The position of delaine wools is very strong, one sale having been made at the extreme prices quoted. Ohio and Pennsylvania washed delaine, 32@33c; Michigan, 30@31c; No. 1, 29@30c. Fine unwashed delaine, 26@27c. There is little doing in Australian wools this market, though at prices considerably lower than the wools could be duplicated for; combing, choice, scoured basis, 75@80c; good, 70@ 76c; average, 72@74c.

Raisin Quotations Advancing.

There is a stronger feeling in the raisin market. Muscatels advancing ½c yesterday, with California Valencias looking upward and likely to be ½c per pound higher by the opening of next week. Only fairly good stocks now in hand kept the advance from coming yesterday. Other dried fruits remain as they were last week. Raisin demand is growing, the heavier request being partly accountable for the advance in prices.

A much stronger tone pervades the produce market on account of the Thanksgiving trade, and prices are higher than they have been, or than they are likely to be after Thursday. Celery took a big jump and fancy stock was being sought without regard to price. Sweet potatoes were wanted, the market being so active that quotations scored a sharp advance. Cucumbers are always in request for the holidays, and only a fairly liberal supply prevented their going to even greater heights than the increased figures now ruling. Lettuce did not respond to the more active conditions to the same extent as did celery, but is noticeably higher than a week ago. Onions are in demand, wanted, quotations taking a leap forward which put them considerably in advance of wax.

Thanksgiving Turkey Comes High.

While the apple market is firmer there has been no actual increase in price, although fancy stock is held stiffly at quotations. Prime red apples command good figures, and are less plentiful than they were a week ago, and holders readily obtain asking price for desirable stock. Catawba grapes, which are still here in limited supply, bring higher figures. Cranberries are strong but not changed in price.

Buyers were paying premiums to secure poultry yesterday, and will be in the same situation today. Live turkeys sold at figures in some instances several cents above the listed quotations, while dressed brought 18c easily. Dealers who predicted light stocks for this week are finding their expectations realized, while a fairly liberal supply of both dressed and live. It is likely that the wholesale market will rule at about 18c until after Thanksgiving, with a possibility of higher prices if the demand is very active. No change is made in the list below, however, inasmuch as this condition will not prevail more than a day or two.

Fresh eggs are still climbing the price ladder, and are now held at 28c. Kentucky eggs were offered in the yards yesterday and were snapped up, showing the state of the market to be the strongest. Butter is firm at Monday's advance. The Elgin statement shows the sales of last week to have reached 962,500 pounds. Cheese is very firm, with prices still gaining strength.

SAYS BABY'S DEAD BODY WAS LEFT WITH PIGS

Wife Accuses Husband of Leaving It in the Back Yard, Where She Buried It—Divorce Troubles of the Mahans.

Charges of a grave nature are made in the divorce case of Ida S. against James T. Mahan of Allegheny. The report of Attorney G. W. McLean, as commissioner, was filed in common pleas No. 1, yesterday. The respondent was a widower with six children when he married the libellant, February 28, 1885, at Uniontown. The woman is 18 years younger than her husband.

Mrs. Mahan says that two weeks after their marriage her husband began to drink and abuse her. While they were living at Blairsville, she alleges, her baby died and her husband carried the remains away. Soon afterward, she says, she was looking out of the window and saw the pigs rooting the dead body in the yard. She says she went out and buried the remains in the rear of the yard.

Mrs. Mahan testified that when her 9-months'-old girl died her husband refused to summon an undertaker. She declares she was forced to employ one, and was compelled to wash for the undertaker to pay for the coffin.

She also says he permitted his children to strike her, and that when his 18-year-old son threw a glass dish at her, cutting Mrs. Mahan's eye, her husband paid no attention to the matter. The libellant says that her physician advised her that if she did not leave her husband she would lose her mind. The couple separated November 17, 1901.

CHIQUITA CASE PUT OFF.

Injunction Proceedings of Frank Bostock Will Come Up In Two Weeks.

In United States circuit court yesterday the case of Smith & Benham against Curran & Hussey, which has been before Judge Buffington for several days, was concluded and given to the jury, which will report to the court at 10 o'clock today.

The suit was brought to recover $500,000 damages from Curran & Hussey, engineers of this city, for an alleged breach of contract in failing to build a pipe line for irrigation purposes at San Luis, Rey county, Cal.

The case of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, as trustees, against John W. Schmidt, the only one remaining on the trial list for the term, was postponed till Tuesday next, after the selection of a jury.

The case of Gertie Wild against the Metropolitan Insurance Company for damages for alleged false arrest was continued till the next term.

The case of Frank C. Bostock, the showman, against Anthony C. Woeckener, to prevent the exhibiting of Chiquita, a dwarf 21 inches tall, for two years, except under his management, was postponed for two weeks.

In the United States district court Samuel Cohen of Greensburg was discharged from bankruptcy.

The court confirmed the sale of the property of A. C. Bailey of Ford City.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed by Joseph Curry of Altoona, with liabilities of $2,803 and assets at $77.

D. H. BROWN IN TROUBLE.

Mrs. Cartus Wants Him to Pay $40,000 for Alleged Libelling of Her Boarding House.

The litigation of D. Howard Brown and his ward, Miss Lottie McIntosh, in the orphans court has resulted in another suit. Mary A. Cartus, in common pleas court No. 1, yesterday filed a suit against Brown for $40,000 damages for alleged libel.

In his answer to Miss McIntosh's petition to have her guardian removed, Brown, among other things, averred that his ward insisted on living at the boarding house of Mrs. Cartus, and that he had learned that the boarding house was not a proper place for his ward.

Mrs. Cartus sets forth in her statement that she is a widow and the keeper of a respectable rooming and boarding house in Pittsburgh. She avers that it is a proper place for Miss McIntosh to board and that Brown well knew the charges were false when he made them. She further avers that she has lost her boarders and roomers by reason of the publication of portions of Brown's answer.

A hearing on the petition of Miss McIntosh was to have been held yesterday morning, but was continued until Friday owing to the absence of Brown from the city.

VIOLINIST ASKS DAMAGES.

Wants $25,000 from G. G. O'Brien for Injuries Caused By a Falling Sign.

John W. Borjes, the well-known violinist, entered suit against G. G. O'Brien for $25,000 damages. He alleges that on September 25 last he was walking along Sixth street and a heavy sign, which was being handled by employes of the defendant, fell on him and injured him about the back, left shoulder, arm and side. He says he was permanently injured and was compelled to remain in his room at the Hotel Lincoln for a long period. He asserts that his ability as a violinist has also been impaired and that the accident was due to carelessness and negligence on the part of the employes.

Charles Smith also entered suit against G. G. O'Brien for $5,000 damages, and entered a similar suit for the same amount against Adam Kessner, an employe of O'Brien. Smith alleges that Kessner struck him, fracturing his jaw, and he seeks to recover from both defendants for the injury. The assault is alleged to have occurred while Kessner was in the employ of O'Brien.

The will of Thomas J. Pierce, who recently committed suicide, was filed in the register's office. All his estate is left to his family. Attorney Mark Schmidt represents the estate.

The account of the administratrix of the estate of L. Wolvington shows $28,059 58 has been received and distributed. The account of the executor of the estate of John Thompson shows a balance of $6,488.

The county commissioners awarded a contract to the New York Filter Company for a filter to cost $1,040. It will be placed in the jail, and will also be used in the distribution of water to the morgue. This is done to prevent damage to boilers.

Emeline Marvin and others filed a bill in equity against the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company for the partition of property in Espien. Valentine Hazel began like proceedings against John Donnelly and others. The property is in the Fifth ward, Allegheny.

The jury in the case of W. C. Welsh against the Pittsburgh Railways Company yesterday in common pleas No. 1 returned a verdict of $1,200 for the plaintiff. Welsh had a dispute with a conductor over his fare, and was ejected from the car. A new trial will be asked for.

Suit was entered by W. Larue Thomas, president of the Indemnity Guaranty Company, against the Western Union Telegraph Company for $10,000 damages. He alleges that a telegram for which he had been waiting, to the effect that his father-in-law had died at Danville, Ky., miscarried.

Eva Zelaski sued Frank Nowitski for $5,000 damages and had a caplas issued for the defendant's arrest. She avers she was sued for larceny before Alderman Burns on March 18, 1902, by the defendant, and committed to jail for a hearing. At the hearing three days later the charge was dismissed.

WILL NOT OBEY ORDER.

Director Leslie Will Not Force Contractors to Cease Work on New Municipal Hospital.

In spite of the positive instructions given the director of public safety by councils, to order the suspension of work on the new municipal hospital in the Thirteenth ward, the contractors will continue to work without interference on the part of Director Leslie.

Both branches of councils passed over the recorder's veto the resolution ordering the suspension of the work on the new hospital until the test in the courts is made by the citizens of the Thirteenth ward, who are objecting to the present location of the hospital. The resolution was passed over the recorder's veto by an unanimous vote.

Director Leslie said yesterday that he would notify the contractors of the action of council, but he could not tell whether they would obey the order. He said they had a contract with the city and would probably insist upon completing it. The director intimated plainly that he would not enforce the instructions of councils, and said if smallpox continues to spread he will not be able to take care of patients at the Municipal hospital, and that new cases will have to be quarantined in their homes.

Director Leslie has about decided to use the superintendent's house in Highland park for a smallpox hospital during the winter. This house contains 12 rooms, four of which have been used without rental by the Highland Golf club. The director has learned that the new station house in Center avenue will not be ready for occupancy for several months.

SUIT AGAINST A BISHOP.

Priest Wants Damages for Interference With Property.

SEWARD, NEB., Nov. 25.—The answer of Father William Murphy, in the famous case of Bishop Bonacum against William Murphy was filed today.

It alleges as a defense that Bishop Bonacum is guilty of contempt of court in failing to obey an injunction granted in a former trial enjoining the bishop from meddling with the church property or bringing any suits until the pope decides the controversy, before whom an appeal is pending. Father Murphy asks for damages for such failure to obey the mandate of the court.

The next issue of The Sunday Gazette will comprise 72 pages. Better order now, for the edition will be exhausted soon after printing.

Pretty Conceits in Vienna Leather Goods.

Art novelties distinctively different from anything shown hereabouts—all of them with a touch of daintiness, such as Viennese artisans give to leather stuffs. Somehow or other domestic makers have failed to acquire the same manipulation of leather in its tanning, finishing and dyeing. The fine training of foreign metal workers, together with the ingeniousness of the leather workers, conspire to produce exclusive and most desirable results.
